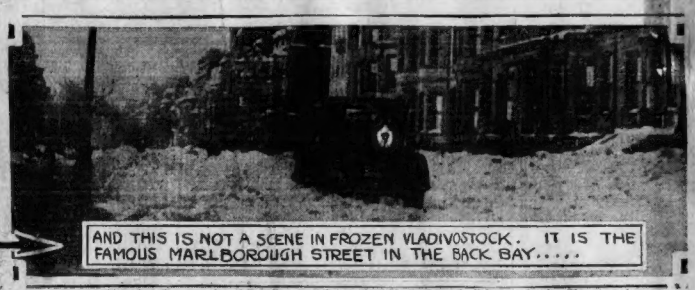
WHY VISIT THE ALPS? STAY HOME AND CLIMB OUR OWN DIZZY BACK BAY GLACIERS!

Corner of two busy Back Bay streets as it looks four days after the recent blizzard. From curb to curb the highways are still buried under a foot of snow. Vehicular traffic has worn ruts that are axle deep. The sight would bring joy to the heart of a home-sick Alaskan. City Hall says it hasn't equipment enough to speed up the cleaning of many other snow-clogged streets like these.



View of another snow-bound Back Bay street that would tickle the heart of a Yukon sourdough. This street is still blocked by drifts several feet high. It would be an ideal place for Winter sports. Note auto plowing up the thoroughfare in snow that reaches the hubs. The scene is typical of many others in various parts of the city where officials have failed in the task of "digging out" after the storm.

Shopping in Millions
What Brokers Borrowed
Not Lost, Mislaid
Mussolini Thunders

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1926, by Star Co.

HIGH FINANCE goes shopping, in these days of powerful credit, and big industrial units, on a wholesale scale.

All records for "cash buying" are broken in the purchase of associated oil" control for $165,000,000 CASH. That's a sum equal to "the great fortune of the Rothschilds—or small change for Ford or Rockefeller."

Gold that brought the forty-niners to California represents a small part of the State's wealth. Besides "Associated Oil" there are many California oil companies. If the right "to control," of a little more than half of them, is worth one hundred and sixty-five millions, how much must all the oil of California be worth?

INVESTIGATING brokers' loans in New York shows $3,813,174,154 borrowed by the brokers to "carry" stocks for their customers "on margin."

Three thousand five hundred and thirteen million dollars is a large sum.

But it is small compared with this country's total wealth. The brokers' borrowing was used mainly by the bears in an effort to injure stock prices. The three and a half billions represent only 6 per cent. of total stock values listed on the exchange.

This is no time to "sell short" in this country, BUT DON'T GAMBLE. That always ends badly.

LLOYD GEORGE says: "The world is losing its ideals. Liberalism throughout the whole world has fallen on evil days."

In Italy he saw newspapers suppressed, men elected, then thrown out of office by force, but, says he, the Italian people like it and prosper under it.

"Italy is prospering, mills and factories are throbbing with life, new works are springing up everywhere, old industries are reviving."

THE WORLD has often seemed "to lose its ideals," when it has only mislaid them temporarily. A respectable gentleman in a rough and tumble fight, rolling into the gutter, loses his dignity as he straightens out his collar, necktie, etc.

But he is all right after a while.

The nations of Europe have been rolling in the gutter, cutting each other's throats. Now a reversion to Toryism and dictatorship is the order of the day.

Nations and individuals all return gradually to old ways of thinking and living.

MUSSOLINI, shaking his fist at Germany, tells the Italian Parliament, "We are not afraid and won't budge an inch from our policy."

This threat refers to trouble about the Brenner Pass in the Tyrol. Mussolini says Italy's flag shall stay there, and if necessary he will carry it forward into German territory.

Italy's Deputies, delighted, greeted Mussolini with thunders of applause.

THAT'S Germany's business and Italy's, not ours. But it may BECOME our business.

BANKER'S FORMER LOVE MATE SCOFFS AT FIFI'S 'PSYCHO HONEYMOON'

(Copyright 1926, by International News Service.

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 8.—Flo Leeds, the woman who won and lost the love of James A. Stillman, today was little interested in the reports that the banker and his wife had sailed for Paris on their second honeymoon.

Her eight-year-old son is the chief interest of the former show girl. Her friends believe she will soon marry a New York business man.

Daily a local florist delivers flowers to the Leeds cottage, and the bills go to the New Yorker.

"I hope they will be happy," Miss Leeds said.

When I first came to Florida with Mr. Stillman I acted with a true love motive, believing a divorce from his wife and marriage with me was imminent and that Mrs. Stillman was really anxius for release so she could marry another," she said.

"I was reading the beautiful love story of James Stillman, but I have

U. S. Moves to Prevent 'Food Trust' Merger

Washington, Feb. 8 (I.N.S.)—The Federal government struck today to prevent the consummation of the $2,000,000,000 food products merger, characterized by its opponents as a "gigantic food monopoly."

Government attorneys went into the Federal Court at Baltimore and filed suit against the Ward Food Products Corporation. Its officers and subsidiary companies, asking the court to prevent them from completing the proposed consolidation under the Sherman Anti-Clayton acts.

Seven corporations and companies and eight individuals were named as defendants. They are:

Ward Food Products Corporation, Ward Baking Corporation, Ward Baking Company, General Baking Company, Continental Baking Corporation, United Bakeries Corporation, William B. Ward, Howard B. Ward, William Deininger, Paul H. Helms, J. W. Rumbough, B. E. Petersen, George G. Barber, George E. Smith.

BUS MAN WARNED OF 'MYSTERY' COUNCILLORS AFTER HINTS OF GRAFT

Because of "mysterious actions" on the part of two Councillors, Franklin L. Hart, who charges graft in the City Council in connection with his attempt to secure a bus license, was warned against "doing business" with anyone who might approach him, a Councillor declared today.

The warning Councillor was Walter E. Wragg of Hyde Park, chairman of the Jitney License Committee, that reported Hart's petition into the Council, where it was tabled a week ago, and Wragg himself admitted today the warning.

Hart has been called before the council today in a probe of the charge that someone tried to hold him up for $5,000 in connection with his license application.

In speaking of his warning Chairman Wragg referred to two city councillors as "mystery men" in the license case.

"One is a member of the committee that reported the petition," said Wragg, "and he appeared in favor of it in the committee meeting. When it reached the council for action, however, he leaned over and whispered to another councillor who moved to lay it on the table."

One of the "mystery men," it was declared by Wragg, had nothing to say in the matter when it first came up, but on its second appearance he opposed it bitterly, but gave "no plausible reason" for his opposition or switch in tactics.

"I became suspicious," said Wragg, "and called up Mr. Hart to ask him if anyone had approached him in the matter. He said no, emphatically.

"Then I told him that if anybody did approach him, not to do business with them."

City Councillor George Gilbody declared today that the graft charges of Hart, who is president of the Hart Motor Coach Company, might have some foundation.

He has knowledge, Gilbody said,

HUB LACKS SNOW CARTS; SHOVELERS JOBLESS

"Not enough carts to carry the snow away."

That was the alibi promulgated from City Hall today, a defense by the city heads for the condition of the streets, and also a defense of the fact that no more snow shovelers are being hired, though hundreds of men swamped the Municipal Employment Bureau at Tyler and Oak streets seeking work as shovellers.

Public Works Commissioner James H. Sullivan was the official who gave out the alibi, incidentally making a complete change of front. Earlier in the day he said that the work of clearing the streets was hampered by "the absence of labor."

But in the official alibi the com-

$125,000 FIRE SWEEPS STORES IN LAWRENCE

Lawrence, Feb. 8.—Fire of undetermined origin today swept the Sullivan block in South Broadway, destroying stocks of three stores and threatening for a time to spread to heavily populated tenement houses in the immediate vicinity. The loss is estimated at $125,000.

Firemen suffered severely from cold, traffic was tied up and lives of scores of onlookers were endangered when highly charged electric wires snapped and fell in front of the burning building.

The fire started in the rear of the building, which extends from South Broadway to Carver street.

A general alarm was sounded. The flames spread with alarming rapidity through the three-story modern brick block, eating their way into a hairdressing parlor and the office of Dr. S. Weiner, surgeon; the dry goods store of Louis Finkler and the Griffin Drug Company store. The stock in each of the three stores was ruined.

With Harvard square crowded with motorists and students, Patrolman Samuel Arthur fired two shots today when a youth attempted to make a getaway after appearing at the Harvard Trust Company with a check which police believe is fraudulent.

The square was thrown into a turmoil as the officer gave chase to the youth, who said his name was Carl A. Reynolds, and that he lived in Dana street.

An attempt was made to "cover up" the shooting by Captain Michael Brennan of the Brattle square police station.

STILLMANS SEEK TO FORGET BITTER PAST IN NEW HONEYMOON

FIFI TEACHES LOVE ANEW TO BANKER STILLMAN ABOARD 'HONEYMOON SHIP'

Mrs. Anne U. Stillman, who is playing role of "love tutor" to Banker James A. Stillman on their "trial honeymoon" aboard the liner Olympic. She is winning "Jimmy" back by psycho-analysis.

Banker Stillman, who is a willing pupil in Fifi's love class aboard ship. If Fifi proves a good teacher, complete reconciliation is near for the long-estranged couple.

Fowler McCormick, for whom Fifi admits an "intellectual love." She credits him with bringing about her present "honeymoon" with her banker husband. Fowler says he's just as happy at the Still-[illegible] as the Stillmans Fifi's elaborate camp at Grande Anse, Canada, where the Stillman's agreed to "try it again." Have plans were secretly laid for their experimental honeymoon—a trip that promises to end most happily for all concerned. Fifi says she was greatly aided in winning back the love of Jimmy by her devotion to psychology. She says her "lessons" are sure to effect a full understanding between herself and "Jimmy" before their journey is over.

Flo Leeds, the "other woman" in the case. Her's is a tragic figure as Fifi and "Jimmy" sail out of her life—perhaps for good. Her only comment is: "Stillman needs her more than he needs me."

"Baby Guy," long a central figure in the Stillman matrimonial tangles. He now has been recognized by his daddy closed the book and laid it aside forever. He is now studying psychoanalysis with his wife who holds him by its mystery."

SLIPPERS AND COFFEE.

But the love worn experience of Flo Leeds holds more faith in comfort than in psychology for Stillman.

"The mystery of a good cup of coffee and warm slippers when a man comes home tired will do more to keep him happy than abstract things," she said.

"The further men go in psychology concerning domestic things the more bewildered they are. Give them comfort at home and their minds won't need analyzing."

Each evening Miss Leeds is seen with members of the theatrical profession who are loyal to her. Some of them declare she could have been reconciled with Stillman when he was here recently but it is reported she refused his overtures after the banker settled a sum for her son's education through attorneys.

FLO "NOT INTERESTED."

When newspapers came out with the announcement of the Stillmans' "study in psychology" the actress, girlishly dressed in white, was with friends at the Club Montmartre here.

She professed no interest in the reconciliation.

Miss Leeds has no intention of returning to the stage, her friends here declare. She was offered a place in one of the Ziegfeld productions but declined it.

Wife Becomes "Love Tutor" to Stillman

By JOHN K. KINKLER.

(Copyright, 1926, by Universal Service and New York American, Inc. Reproduction in Whole or Part Prohibited.)

New York, Feb. 8.—On the liner Olympic, ploughing her way through Wintry seas toward the coast of France, James A. Stillman and Mrs. Anne U. Stillman, "eloping" to Europe on a "trial honeymoon," together took the first step in a plan worked out before they left—a plan they hope will result within a few weeks in a complete reconciliation. This was made known through radiograms from the Olympic.

In a quiet nook on the vessel Anne Stillman "tutored" her banker husband in his first lesson in analytical psychology.

When she slipped out of suite 6-R in the Hotel Madison at 7:30 o'clock Friday morning, Mrs. Stillman carried a determined red rose and a leather case containing half a dozen of her favorite volumes.

BOOK OF POEMS.

There was a thin little book of poems, bound in red leather—A. E. Housman's "Shropshire Lad"—and the two often-thumbed books she calls "My Props"—Jung's "Psychological Types" and Baynes' "Psychoanalysis and the Psyches."

"My 'props' did so much for me, Jimmy!"

Mrs. Stillman had girlishly exclaimed this to her husband in their last "formal conference" in the Hotel Ritz-Carlton in Montreal a fortnight ago. She went on:

"If you will read them and study them with me and then talk to Dr. Baynes in London I'll go to Europe with you."

Stillman agreed, and yesterday, on the Olympic, the staid financier "went to school" to Jung and Baynes and Anne Stillman.

Together their heads bent together over "Psychoanalysis and the Psyches."

Mrs Stillman said to her husband:

"So many things will be made clear to you, James A., if you will only go over the ground I went over in August, 1920, when I went to Zurich. You will learn sincerity—sincerity of feeling and expression. You will no longer be emotionally or spiritually inhibited.

"You will understand why I was able to fight you so successfully before the public; why you once believed your silly charges against myself and Fred Beauvais; why you yourself were impelled to turn to Flo Leeds for consolation.

"You will understand also why, underneath, you and I have always been good friends; why we may become lovers again, old boy."

Mrs. Stillman also explained to her husband, tonight from the deadline, her associating with Fowler McCormick, son of Harold F. McCormick, known, no matter what the press and the public have said about him in the past."

Flo Leeds Seems Unconcerned but Keeps Close to Lawyers

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 8 (Universal).—Florence Leeds, the correspondent in the famous Stillman domestic tangle, has been missing from her usual haunts here since the Palm Beach Post printed Universal Service's exclusive story about the reconciliation of the Stillmans.

Before secluding herself, however, she is quoted as having said to friends: "I have no interest in the matter. Stillman needs his wife more than she needs him. She is capable of taking care of herself and her son just as I can take care of my boy."

Fowler McCormick Glad Stillmans Are Reunited

New York, Feb. 8.—That the reconciliation of the Stillmans had been planned for some time is shown by the fact that young Fowler McCormick, son of Harold F. McCormick, who was reported once to have been attentive to Mrs. Stillman, knew all about their plans.

McCormick, who is staying at Mrs. Stillman's camp at Grande Anse, Quebec, was reached by reporters. He admitted:

"Why, of course, I knew they were planning to return to each other. And I knew that they were going to sail, too. It had been planned for quite a time.

"All of us who care for them are very happy. I think it is rather beautiful that they can return, don't you?"

WARN BUS MAN OF 'MYSTERY' COUNCILORS

that "mysterious council meetings" are being held every Sunday, "probably by Republicans."

Today Gilbody chopped his statement referring to the graft charge with the terse observation that the "mysterious Council meetings" were being held weekly.

"The charges are a surprise to me," he said, "but I don't doubt that there may have been some sort of graft, probably among some of the younger members, at the instigation of some people not now in the City Council.

"At the City Council meeting today to investigate the charges, I propose to make Hart name the man, and if there is any squabble, I will put the whole proposition right up to the Mayor.

"Mr. Hart came to me in regard to the bus license when he first asked for a permit. I sent him to Councillor Wragg of Hyde Park, who was chairman of the jitney committee, and I have not heard from Hart since.

"I believe Mr. Hart has a legitimate claim and should be granted a license."

President Charles G. Keene of the City Council denied flatly that any graft existed in connection with the Hart bus permit.

EXPLAINS SITUATION.

The only difficulty standing in the way of granting the license, he said, is in the determining whether Hart is applying in his own interest or as a "straw man" for outside interests.

"My associates in the council," he said, "will grant the license gladly if it can be proven that it is for Hart himself."

PROHIBITION IS MAKING GOOD, SAYS JUDGE

By JOHN FORD.

Justice New York Supreme Court.

New York, Feb. 8.—Mr. Hearst's timely contribution on prohibition in the Sunday American was in line with his old and consistent policy of promoting the cause of temperance.

I do not share his misgivings as to the success of prohibition. True, we have been living under the Volstead act for some half a dozen years. But, that is a mere pinpoint of time in the period required to accomplish the fundamental changes in the mores of life of a people.

Prohibition has not had a fair trial. For national enforcement, brand new machinery had to be set up and put into operation in an unfried field. It took time to test the machinery and perfect it. But there is no doubt that it is becoming more effective day by day.

To stop the sale of hard liquors would be an impossibility and the great demand in America is for them, no matter how much it be camouflaged under a demand for beer and light wines. We might as well reinstate the corner saloon and be done with it.

Give prohibition a fair chance.

SIX CHELSEA RUM CASES HELD OVER

Six alleged violators of the prohibition law, arrested by Federal inspectors in a Chelsea raid two weeks ago were granted further continuance of their cases today by U. S. Commissioner Jenney.

Meyer Brown, confined to his home through illness, was granted a continuance of three weeks; William F. C. Wing and Clarence Small were given one week more, while the problems of William Schwartz, John Kaleo and Morris Mardon, who sought to have the warrant quashed because of its having contained a wrong street number, were taken under advisement.

formation of the alleged "bakery trust."

The hearing was before the Federal Trade Commission examiner, John W. Addison of Washington, with Colonel A. R. Brindley acting as attorney.

dion's answer to the complaint, in Colonel Brindley said the corporations admitting an absorption of subsidiary corporations, had narrowed the issues to two:

"First: Whether the absorbed corporations had been engaged in commerce within the meaning of the law.

"Second: Whether their absorption had led to results outlined in the complaint, violation of the Clayton act."

NEW AIR PROBE ORDERED BY COOLIDGE

Washington, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—An investigation of conditions in the Army Air Service has been ordered by Secretary Davis of the War Department.

The Secretary wants to know whether air service officers still are opposing the air policies of President Coolidge and are employing disloyal methods in carrying forward the agitation for a separate air corps.

To establish the facts two separate inquiries have been ordered by the Secretary. One phase has been placed in the hands of Major-General Eli A. Helmick, inspector-general of the army. Another has been intrusted to Major-General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the air service.

Whether disciplinary action will be taken by the War Secretary depends upon the completeness of the information collected. It is conceded to be within the realm of possibilities that a reorganization of air service, including court martial proceedings similar to those which preceded the exit of Colonel William Mitchell from the army, will follow.

While Mr. Davis and other department officials decline to disclose the evidence which led to the decision for a sweeping investigation, it is known that the War Secretary has in his possession copies of anonymous documents believed by some departmental authorities to have been mimeographed and distributed through air service officers on duty with National Guard and reserve organizations through the country to "get busy" in their support of the air corps bill.

Reported activities of air officers in furnishing Congressmen with prepared statements intended for distribution through their offices at the Capitol and supporting other legislative proposals for alteration of the President's air policy also will be carefully inquired into by the investigators.

The circular urging "additional work" for a separate air corps has attached to it a summary of General Patrick's recent testimony, in which he held that the air board recommendations do not go far enough.

GRAND JURY PROBES BAR EXAM FRAUD

The bar examination fraud, alleged to have netted salesmen of examination questions at least $15,000, became a subject for Grand Jury investigation today.

Assistant Attorney General Alfred R. Shrigley began presentation of evidence before the Grand Jury and nearly 100 individuals are understood to have been summoned as witnesses.

In addition, it is said, there is considerable documentary evidence in possession of the Attorney-General.

Presentation of evidence was to determine whether criminal action will be taken.

CHAPTER VII.

Montpelier, Vt., Feb. 8.—Harry Murdock was such a clever all-round mechanic that I made a mental note to cultivate him as a possible ally in my bootlegging enterprise. I didn't know whether I could enlist his aid or not, but I saw the possibilities of such an alliance, the first time I met him through Tony.

My dealings with men, while assisting my husband in his lumber business, had made me somewhat of a student of human nature. There was nothing sly or shifty in Murdock's make-up. He impressed me as a chap on whom you could depend—the type that could be expected to carry through as faithfully in your absence as when you were on the job.

He proved that my early appraisal of him was correct as our associations developed. What was more important, you could trust him with money. I never caught him in a mean or dishonest act.

But that all comes later in my story.

In my first talk with Mr. Blank, to rig my car with a false bottom in the Boston buyer, he told me that it would be wise, yes even imperative, prior to deceive the eyes of the

TROY CASE WITNESSES ACCUSED

Scharton Charges Two With Having Criminal Records

Worcester, Feb. 8.—Celebrating his first appearance in local court as chief counsel for Johnny Troy and Dennis J. Britt, Attorney William R. Scharton today in cross-examination brought out that two of the government witnesses had criminal records.

At one time Scharton created surprise by threatening to put on the stand District Attorney Emerson W. Baker to explain why Anthony Varrano, an important witness, was not arrested as a fugitive from justice after jumping bail.

SAYS HE JUMPED BAIL.

Counsel for Troy and Britt, alleged auto thugs, declared he would prove that Varrano jumped his bail, imposed after his arrest on a liquor violation and a charge of resisting a prohibition agent, and next appeared as a government witness.

This statement was made during the cross-examination of Varrano, who had testified in direct examination that on August 14 he was hot up in an automobile by Troy and two other youths. The witness said he was ordered to put up his hands, and failing to comply rapidly enough was accelerated by a bullet through the windshield of his car.

Varrano testified he leaped from the car and cried: "Am I shot?" To this Troy replied: "No, not yet, but you're liable to be," the witness said.

CHARGED LIQUOR SELLING.

In starting his cross-examination of Varrano, Attorney Scharton asked if his business was not selling liquor. District Attorney Baker objected, and Scharton then produced court records. Then in response to the question, Varrano admitted that on December 29, 1924, he pleaded guilty in Worcester Superior court to a liquor law violation, was sentenced to two months and fined $50. The witness also admitted that on October 13, 1922, he pleaded guilty in Plymouth county to a liquor charge and was fined $75.

A previous witness, Theodore E. Curtis, had testified that he saw Troy in Kelly square, Worcester, on the night of August 14. Curtis said he had known Troy from childhood, and also knew Britt and Desrosier.

Attorney Scharton objected to the line of inquiries, who was shot by a local policeman during the holdup of a night restaurant.

GIRL SLAIN TO 'COVER UP' FIGHT

Body Found in a Snowbank; Wounded Suspect Seized in N. Y. Hospital

New York, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Charles Mitchell, 28 years old, according to police, has confessed slaying a young woman whose body was found early today in a snowbank at Fifty-fourth street, near Avenue A.

Mitchell was arrested in Bellevue Hospital where he had gone for treatment for a bullet wound in his left shoulder and laceration of the scalp.

The police say that Mitchell and another man, whose name has not been revealed, were with the young woman in an automobile when a quarrel was started, ending in a gun fight.

Mitchell, the police say, pushed the other man out of the car and then in order to prevent the woman from telling the story, shot her twice.

Mitchell told the police that he had exchanged several shots with his mate companion, after the latter had fired at him. He believes that his companion was fatally hurt.

Mitchell was walking along Ninth avenue when a patrolman, noticing his bloodstained clothing, questioned him and later sent him to hospital. When this news was flashed to headquarters, detectives were sent to the hospital and Mitchell's arrest on a charge of homicide, followed.

Mitchell declined to reveal the name of the woman.

WOMAN FREED IN SLAYING

Exoneration for Mrs. Theresa Pasquelotti of Chelsea street, East Boston, charged with killing her husband, Paulo Pasquelotti, came today from the Suffolk County Grand Jury, when a "no bill" was returned against her.

Mrs. Pasquelotti, mother of two small children, and about to become a mother a third time, was alleged to have stabbed the husband twice, during a quarrel in which he kicked her in the abdomen.

When arraigned in court last Saturday she was so weak that she had to be assisted into the court-room on the arms of officers.

NAB MAN WHO FLED JAIL TO SEE WIFE

It was cold today when Joseph Dion of Fall River, and fugitive from Salem Jail sought the warmth of the People's Temple, Boston Salvation Army Post in Columbus av., South End. Ten minutes later Salem officials entered the post and nabbed him.

Judge George Sears, in Salem, sentenced Dion to serve two additional months for unlawful escape. On October 16 of last year, he was sentenced to four months at Lynn on a charge of breaking and entering. He escaped on December 18, urged by a longing to see his wife in Fall River, he told the court.

TROOPERS HOLD MOB AT BAY

Use Gas Bombs to Stop Rush at the Trial of Negro in Delaware

Georgetown, Del., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Determined to get into the courthouse here for the afternoon session of the trial of Harry Butler, negro, charged with attacking Eleanor Steinmetz, a ten-year-old white girl of Bridgeville, on January 21, two thousand persons, mostly men, made a rush to storm the building this afternoon.

The crowd was breaking down the barbed wire fence protecting the building when the efforts at pacification failed. It was resisted with tear bombs, thrown by soldiers from the courthouse.

The mob was anxious to hear the concluding part of the case against the negro.

IGNORE WARNINGS.

When the crowd began to break down the barbed wire fence, Captain Fred Marvil of Laurel, adjutant at the military headquarters here, talked to the mob, telling them that all who could be admitted would be allowed in at the proper time. He begged them to get back. Similar action was taken by Major S. B. Duncan, the commanding officer.

It was unheeded, whereupon soldiers put on gas masks and hurled tear bombs from the upper windows of the courthouse. About 20 or 30 bombs were thrown.

CROWD SCATTERS.

The bombs had the desired effect. The crowd quickly scattered, some persons being slightly injured in the rush. After the fumes had passed off the crowd was back at the wire again, but a little less emphatic, hoping for a chance to get in the building and hear the trial.

At 1:30 o'clock court recessed until 2:30 p. m.

The soldiers were on duty as the result of a proclamation issued last week by Governor Robinson when threats of lynching were made against Butler.

ESCAPED TORPEDOES TO DROWN NEAR SHORE

Owl's Head, Me., Feb. 8.—The body of Eric Haggard, 35, who escaped death twice during the World War when his ship was torpedoed, and who was drowned close to shore, has been recovered.

The man, a fisherman, started out in a dory to set some lobster pots. The boat was capsized by a heavy wave and Haggard could not make his way to the shore, but a few feet from him.

MANY INSULTS, NO WORK, SAYS JOB HUNTER

Snow Shovelers Turned Down by City Officials While Streets Are Clogged

missioner says that the lack of carts prevents speedier removal of the snow, and this same lack of vehicles prevents the hiring of more men, as there would be nothing for them to do.

Residents of the Back Bay and the suburbs point out that the streets could be cleared for the passage of grocery wagons, milk teams and coal wagons even if the piles of snow were not carried away immediately.

Commissioner Sullivan's figures have it that 3,200 men are employed in shoveling snow. There are 1,409 regular workmen of the street department, including the sanitary and paving branches.

MORE WAGONS NEEDED.

The city has hired 800 additional workers, while the contractors have hired 1,000 men. The commissioner said that if carts were available the city could put 1,800 more men to work at once.

Said Commissioner Sullivan:

"I am satisfied that we have the problem of snow removal and breaking out streets in the suburban districts well in hand.

"The people in Dorchester, West Roxbury, Brighton, Hyde Park and other sections, who say they never saw anything so deplorable as the present conditions of the streets, had better search their memories more carefully.

"They complain that certain streets have not been broken out. We have seen to it that hundreds of these streets have been broken out and we're opening the others as fast as possible.

HYDRANTS ARE BURIED.

"They say that hydrants are imbedded in several feet of snow, and we say that the hydrants would not be made thus inaccessible unless the property owners threw the snow from their sidewalks onto the hydrants.

"For instance, nearly 300 men were at work on catch basins, but these were soon filled in.

"We shall work continuously to make conditions better in the suburban districts, but the absence of laborers makes the work particularly hard.

"Of course in an emergency such as this the city's first duty is to meet conditions in the business district, and people should help in everyway in the matter of traffic and in shoveling from their property."

Men seeking work called Mayor Nichols' statement that all seekers after work would be hired "the bunk" when they were turned away today both at the municipal employment bureau and at the offices of several of the contractors.

At four city yards and by two contractors, Richard McMahon, of the South End, was rejected, in spite of Mayor Nichols public declaration that men who wished to help out in the emergency would be taken on if they reported at the yards.

"Do you vote in this ward? No? Then get out," was the cordial reception given at one yard office.

"We haven't got any shovels for you birds," was the reply given McMahon and 15 other applicants both by contractors and by officials at the city yards.

McMahon, a strapping youth of six feet and weighing 183 pounds, after suffering rejection so many times and being shoved and pushed away along with scores of others by policemen, told his story to the Boston Evening American, while a comrade who experienced similar treatment told his story first direct to Mayor Nichols and then to the Boston Evening American.

PROMISE INVESTIGATION.

Mayor Nichols was asked point blank why work was not available after his promise, and why policemen were shoving applicants away when he had said that patrolmen would be used to pass the word around that snow shovelers were needed.

An investigation was promised.

McMahon set out at 6:30 in the morning to help dig the city out of snow, forty-eight hours old, but still clogging downtown streets and making business men storm in wrath.

"I went direct to the Public Works Department yard on Albany street, arriving there at 7 just as the teams were starting out for work," he said. "The Mayor said you are hiring snow-shovelers," I said. "Give me a job."

"We ain't hiring anybody, got all we can use," was the reply I got, but was told to go to Station 5.

"I went to police station 5 at East Dedham street, and the lieutenant said somebody must be crazy to send me there looking for work, but he told me to go to Adams square.

"There I found 500 besides myself hanging around doing nothing because the word was passed around to us that they weren't hiring anybody. From there I walked over to the city employment office at the corner of Oak and Tyler streets. It was a few minutes past 12 and the office was closed for the half-holiday.

NO SHOVELS.

"Down on Atlantic avenue where they were dumping the snow into the water I asked a contractor boss for work and he said there were no more shovels. On Commercial street another foreman told me the same thing and a city inspector repeated it.

"Next I went on to the North city yard on Commercial street. There weren't shovels there, but plenty of insults."

The man who went to Mayor Nicholas at City Hall and told him personally in his office of conditions at the North End yard is a Wollaston man who requested his name be withheld. He reported the Mayor was pleasant and sympathetic but asked him to try again Sunday.

While these men were experiencing this trouble officials of the Public Works Department were admitting that the crew of 3,000 that contractors were to put shoveling snow for the city had dwindled in actuality to 450 men, with prospects of being increased to 850.

More Snow on Way to Clog Boston Streets

After a week-end of rest, a good chance was offered for alibi weather again today, when the report came through that more snow will come tonight, or, if not tonight, tomorrow.

Turned Down

Richard McMahon, hearing the city needed 5,000 men to shovel snow from the clogged streets, tried hard to land a job. "We've no shovels for you birds," he was told at one place. At others he was shoved around and insulted. The army of 5,000 had dwindled to 450.

CHARGE EAST BOSTON MAN STOLE MUCH GAS

Genaro Cifuni of Short street, East Boston, was arraigned today in East Boston District Court charged with stealing 5,729 cubic feet of gas from the Boston Consolidated Gas Company, fraudulently wasting and burning gas and unlawfully tapping a gas main. He pleaded not guilty and the case was continued until February 12.

Several persons in the neighborhood, according to officials of the gas company, were affected by the escaping fumes and had close calls. Cifuni was charged with removing a plug in a pipe that passed through his apartment and attaching a tube.

HOSPITAL SITE SEEMS SURE FOR BEDFORD

Objections to Vets' Location at West Medford Put Limit on Choice

The new veterans hospital will be located at Bedford, it was decided in Washington today, in the event a suitable site cannot be secured at a reasonable price in West Medford.

The understanding is, however, that the only practical site in West Medford is beyond reach of the Veterans Bureau. It is the Brooks estate, and title to it was passed recently. Also much objection was raised to locating the hospital in West Medford.

The new institution would be designed to care for 300 neuro-psychiatric patients and would replace the present hospital in West Roxbury.

When completed it is expected that the structure and site will represent a cost of $3,000,000.

For more than a year a hunt has been on for the best site, and in the last few months the choice narrowed down to locations in Bedford, West Medford and Nashua, N. H.

35 PLEAD IN RUM PLOT; WARRANTS OUT FOR 26

New York, Feb. 8 (A.P.)—Thirty-five of the sixty-one men, including William V. Dwyer, race track owner, indicted on January 28 on charges of violating the national prohibition law, today pleaded not guilty and were held for trial in Federal Court on March 1. The remaining defendants failed to put in appearances and bench warrants were ordered issued by Judge Howe.

LADY CATHCART ARRIVES ON CARMANIA

Bearing among her passengers the Countess Vera Cathcart, the Cunard liner Carmania arrived at Boston today.

Countess Cathcart is bound for New York where she hopes to see produced her three act play "Ashes," dramatizing the story of her ill-starred love affair with the Earl of Craven.

She was accompanied by Lady Delia Huntington of Kerry, Ireland, and Mrs. Cecelia Carr, a native of Virginia, now a resident of London. The voyage consumed nine days, during which the Carmania bucked heavy winds. At the start of the voyage the steamship collided with a dummy bridge in the river Mersey, and was then driven by the tide into the Blue Funnel liner Sarpedon, escaping without damage, however.

Lady Cathcart, who startled London society by eloping to South Africa with the young Earl of Craven, was reluctant to discuss the affair. The earl later returned to his wife, and they are now Wintering at Bermuda.

The Carmania had a total of 426 passengers, of whom 197 debarked in Boston, among those stopping here being the Rt. Rev. J. A. Murphy, S. J., bishop of British Honduras. He will visit Boston College.

T. W. Best of Brookline, a book buyer, made his 55th crossing in the Carmania, and reported it the worst he had ever experienced for continuous bad weather.

Leaving more than 3,000 sacks of mail, the Carmania sailed for New York.

EDITOR OF SCOTTISH AMERICAN KILLED

Lynbrook, N. Y., Feb. 8 (I.N.S.)—Herbert Graham, editor of The Scottish American, was killed early today when a Long Island Railroad train struck his auto, throwing it fifty feet against a freight car on a siding. Ten years ago The Scottish American under Graham's leadership raised $100,000 for relief of famine conditions affecting 30,000 residents of Scotland.

He was arraigned on the charges before Judge Flynn, pleaded not guilty and was allowed to go on his own recognizance.

BROKER DEAL GUILTY IN "BUCKET SHOP" CASE

Charles Deal, former manager of the stock brokerage firm of Wellington & Company, No. 101 Milk street, was found guilty of conducting a bucket shop by a jury which returned its verdict in Suffolk Superior Criminal Court today. Trial of the case was completed Friday. Achilles DeSalvo, George Alexander, Edward Rosenberg, and Sigmund Levy, associates of Deal, pleaded guilty to indictments. Deal will be sentenced at a later date.

N. Y. SUPPER CLUBS VIOLATE FIRE LAWS

New York, Feb. 8 (A.P.)—New York Supper Clubs, many of which have been padlocked in recent months for violation of the prohibition law, now face further curbing under the city fire ordinance.

Representatives of Texas Guinan's "30" Club and the Melody Club, both in West Fifty-Fourth street, were summoned to police court on charges of violating the city fire ordinances regulating dancing establishments.

12 HURT IN CRASH OF BUS AND TRUCK

Westport, Ct., Feb 8 (A.P.)—Twelve passengers, mostly women, were cut about the face and hands by flying glass today when a bus operated by the Blue Club coach lines collided with a furniture truck near here. The bus, bound for New York, was sideswiped by the truck, going in the opposite direction, when, according to the bus passengers, the truck operator failed to heed a warning signal given by the bus driver.

DEATH IS CALLING CUE TO GREAT TRAGEDIAN, DEAN OF SHAKESPEAREAN ACTORS

Marie Booth Russell of illustrious Shakespearean heritage on the American stage, was the first wife of Robert Mantall, dean of the legitimate.

Mantell, in his mature years made Shylock a figure of many sorrows and great dignity, interpreting in him the age long martyrdom of a race.

In the role of Richard III he was the real successor of Thomas Keene, his contemporary, but gave a new and bitingly sardonic interpretation of the character.

In the heyday of his career he was loved as a romantic actor and his "Face in the Moonlight" is a treasured memory of the middle-aged playgoers.

In his declining years he made the role of King Lear, victim of ingratitude, the vehicle for his great dramatic powers and will be remembered as the best exponent of this role.

As Richelieu he had no peer and his interpretation of this great role will be a heritage of memory to the provincial audiences fortunate enough to see him.

His present wife, Genevieve, Hamner, was his mentor and inspirational guide when he abandoned the romantic for the classic roles—a silent, but potential, force.

LAST CURTAIN RINGING FOR MANTELL

The career of Robert Mantell, Shakespearean actor and the last of the great American tragedians of the old school, seemed perilously near its close today. Mantell is fighting for life at Calgary, Alberta, where he was suddenly stricken. A performance of "King Lear" was cancelled.

Mantell, who reached his greatest glory in the role of King Lear, began his American career more than half a century ago. At twenty he left the British Isles and came to Boston. While his residence was in New York, Mantell always remembered Boston.

Two women stand out in the life of Mantell as inspirations that aided him in the journey to fame. They were Marie Booth Russell and Genevieve Hamner, his first and second wives, respectively, and themselves actresses of note.

It was in the earlier part of his career that Marie Booth Russell made her influence felt in the histronic art of Mantell. She ministered to his personal wants and her inspiring companionship proved to be what Mantell needed to bring his genius to the fore.

Later Genevieve Hamner his second wife, took up the silent role, which she played with as much devotion and reverence as did her predecessor.

Mantell's greatest character was "King Lear," according to the critics, a role which he played with all the fire and heroics of the old school. "Richlieu" also claimed a large share of his talents, and his "Shylock" and "Richard, the Third," were two of his most outstanding Shakespearean roles.

As the newer school assumed the ascendancy in the Shakespearean theatre, Mantell's "Lear" still stalked the boards, an unviolated relic of the heroic days.

Boy and Rescuer Killed

Washington, Feb. 8 (I.N.S.)—Alexander Gregory, nine, and Thomas Dunn, 66, railroad crossing watchman, were instantly killed at Takoma Park by the Capitol Limited on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. Gregory, on his way to school, stepped into the path of the flyer. Dunn jumped to push the boy off the track. Both were hurled 75 feet.

TIPPERARYS WILL SEE REAL OLD TIME DANCES

By JAMES WALSH.

The annual ball of the County Tipperary Association will be held tomorrow night in Hibernian Hall, Dudley street. Thomas Murray, president of the association, expects a large number of prominent people will attend as guests. Presidents and officers of the various Irish County associations will be there. Many novel features have been arranged, including old-time Irish dancing. The ball will be preceded by a concert from 8 to 9.

The County Sligo Benevolent and Protective Association will have its annual ball and concert in Hibernian Building on Thursday evening, February 11. Hundreds of members and their friends will attend. The committee in charge of the affair has arranged many novel features, one of which is an old-time dancing contest. The committee includes Frank M. Ternan, Michael Tighe, Patrick Tuffey, Thomas Campbell, John B. Dolan, Martin Flynan, Timothy Caldwell, Patrick McDonough, Miss Annie and Miss Bertie Cafferty, Miss Mary Stenson, Miss Annie McCormick, Miss Mary O'Connor, Miss Alexander and Mrs. Campbell, Thomas Henry, Bert Lavin, Michael Connolly, Christy Hudson, William Alexander, Patrick Fitzpatrick, Patrick Rowley, Edward Benson and Thomas Walsh.

The annual concert of the Michael Davitt Council, American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, will be held in Franklin Union Hall, Berkeley street, South End, on Thursday evening, Feb. 11. One of the features will be the appearance of Miss Hester Keane, prize winning Irish step-dancer. Patrick J. Gaffney will play old Irish dance music.

Delegations from various Irish societies attended a meeting yesterday of the Associated American Irish Societies in Hibernian Hall, Roxbury, to further plan for their participation in the Evacuation Day parade on March 17. It was decided to organize the various societies that will take part by districts, all to be united in one extensive division in the parade.

Next Sunday there will be a meeting of the executive committee, which includes the presidents of the Irish County Associations, Hibernians, Irish National Foresters, A. A. R. R. R., and other societies. Yesterday William H. O'Brien, Frank M. Ternan and High Secretary-Treasurer Forester of the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters, addressed the meeting. The latter stated that he would recommend that his organization unite with the Irish Societies to participate in the parade.

The Rev. Thomas M. Naughten of Ireland addressed largely attended meetings of the County Galway Men's Association, the County Sligo Association, the County Tipperary Association and the Thomas Davis Literary Club in various halls of the Hibernian Building last night. The purpose of Fr. Naughten's visit to this country is to raise funds for the erection of a suitable memorial to A. Michael Griffin, the Irish Martyr priest.

The Thomas Davis Literary Club completed arrangements for an observance of Robert Emmet anniversary on March 4 in O'Connell Hall. The members were entertained last night by Dan Murphy and John Ryan, Irish pipers. John Driscoll, Captain M. Sullivan, Miss E. O'Keefe, Alfred Boyle, Edward Devenney, Timothy Donovan, president of the club, presided.

Members of the Sinn Fein Society, Inc., of Boston, had their regular weekly social last night in Curtin Hall, Deacon Building. Captain Cassidy of the Irish Republican Army, who recently arrived from Ireland, addressed the members. A musical entertainment followed.

General Frank Aiken of the Irish Republican Army, and Peter Golden of New York paid an unexpected visit to the meeting of the Washington Pearse Council, A. A. R. R. R. Mr. Golden, who had been ill at the residence of Dr. James T. Gallagher, president of the council, came to say good-bye before returning to New York. General Aiken spoke hopefully of the outlook in the old country, and urged the council to renewed efforts in the way of enrolling additional members.

BAKECART NOT SO BAD, SAYS HUMMEL

South Portland, Me., Feb. 8 (A.P.)—There are worse things than driving a bakecart, Henry D. Hummel claimed of a million dollar estate told the world today. Back aeain at his worn out, from a trip in New York undertaken to back his claim that he is the son of Mayor Hummel, former New York lawyer who died recently in London, Hummel today resumed the seat of his delivery wagon and reverted to supplying housewives with cakes and doughnuts.

"I'm going to keep right on with this job until I find out what comes of my claim," Hummel said today as he held the reins over Lady, his trusty mare. "The business has been bothered too long while I've been traveling about. Then there have been too many people coming to see me. I'll have to hustle to catch up."

Hummel went to New York last week with his attorney, State Senator Frederick W. Hinckley, to attend the funeral of the man he claims as his father, and to make arrangements for contesting Abe Hummel's will. A formal contest has been entered, and Henry now will devote his time to his little bakery business, while his legal representatives in New York protect his interests.

In New York, the youth said, he found many persons who recalled his mother, Lelia Farrell, former singer, of Portland, and were ready to testify that his pretensions to the Hummel estate were well founded.

QUESTION IS: ARE BOBS PASSING? GIRLS, LISTEN!

New York, Feb. 8.—Many members think that the bob has reached the end of its career, and others are sure it is permanent, so the American Master Hairdressers Association is going to debate the subject in convention next month and offer prizes for the best transformation to cover up a bob.

BE A BOSTON BOOSTER

9,999,436 AUTOS IN U. S; 25 MILLION IN WORLD

Washington, Feb. 8 (I.N.S.)—The American people are now using three times as many automobiles as all the rest of the world combined, the Department of Commerce announced today.

There were 19,999,436 registered throughout the United States on January 1, or about one for every five persons, men, women and children in the country. It is estimated there are 22,000,000 homes in the country so this would mean an automobile for four of every five homes.

The estimated value of all the machines is more than $11,000,000,000.

They cost the country a billion or two in property damage, as the result of traffic accidents and about 20,000 lives in 1925.

Department figures showed 25,973,928 autos in operation in the world January 1 compared with 22,700,344 a year before. Of these 20,799,151 were passenger cars, 181,573 busses, 3,454,920 trucks and 1,519,765 motorcycles.

In the United States passenger machines numbered 17,317,357, busses 39,609, trucks 244,579 and motorcycles 155,500.

Mantua, Italy, Feb. 8.—Handshaking is now forbidden city employes by the Fascisti. They must give the Roman salute.

COAL STRIKER'S WIFE DIES OF STARVATION

Williamstre, Pa., Feb. 8 (A.P.)—Starvation as a result of the anthracite strike has claimed its first victim.

Destitution and want have been reported from all parts of the region for several weeks, but the first case of actual starvation was revealed when the death of Mrs. Mary Harrington, at Ashland, wife of a striking miner, was investigated. Deputy Coroner Sener said he was convinced her death was due to hunger.

Mrs. Harrington's husband had left the coal field to find employment elsewhere. What little food she had received, Mr. Sener said, was obtained from a soup kitchen, and this had been given to her children, one of which was only five months old. The deputy coroner said the woman had been too proud to ask aid for herself.

MONEY IS LITTLE TO THIS HAPPY FELLOW

New York, Feb. 8.—It is unsafe to tear up good $20 bills, John J. Huke strewed bits of $2,000 around and was arrested for littering Battery Park. Laughing, he would not explain except to say that he had more in the bank which also would be torn up.

The Simple Frock Shop features the newest fashions

EMBROIDERY

Embroidery is new when it is used in the upper part of a frock only—as Vionnet embroidery her frocks for Spring. In fine heavy crepe de chine frocks it is used for the smart little jumpers, all-over embroidery on harmonious coloring. The frocks have such new shades as bois de rose, blue bell blue, leaf green, beige. Another proof of the Simple Frock Shop's insistence on style rightness. In Misses' and Women's sizes, 16, 36, 38, 40, 25.00.

Shopping with Priscilla Price

DEAREST ANNE:

This has been a busy week. What with the opera, dinners, luncheons, teas and shopping, I am fairly exhausted. The values in the shops have never been more wonderful. Today shows the beginning of a

Sale at Hickson's

—and, my dear, such a sale—the reductions, well—they are positively startling!

I ran into their shop at 669 Boylston Street Saturday and they are having this special sale prior to their Spring opening for only three days, February 8th, 9th and 10th. Think of getting an enchanting chiffon dance frock that was formerly a hundred and fifty dollars for thirty-five!

Afternoon dresses, suits, costumes and coats direct from the world's fashionable Rue de la Paix may be had for a fraction of their original cost at Boston's Boylston Street fashion centre, Hickson's. Every year this sale draws the woman who wants to look her best on all occasions, and the one who realizes that the best clothes are not the most expensive if bought at the right time and place. Now is the time and Hickson's the place. Such remarkable values for style, workmanship and exclusiveness won't last long, so don't miss them. The dates are today, tomorrow and Wednesday.

Mrs. Ronald Lyman makes a morning tour of Boston's smart shops.

Frills to the Fore

Softly frilled is to be in fashion, and F. P. O'Connor, 157 Tremont, have all the frills of fashion. I rushed in there the other day and they are having a most remarkable sale of lovely imported and domestic neckwear.

Sets up to $5 have been reduced to $1.95. Dainty Bauche filet and Irish lace is combined with fine French embroidered batiste or tucked net. The sets are simply beautiful. I bought three to dress up plain dresses. There is nothing much more becoming than a soft lacy finish around one's neck.

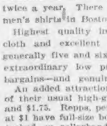
Plain but good looking Bramley sets come in linen, trimmed with real lace and hand embroidered dots. Boat, round and v-necks with matching cuffs all reduced to $1.95.

Dainty guimpes and collar and cuffs sets are marked half their original price.

Awfully attractive are fine black silk afternoon bags for only $2.95. They are most unique, piped with gold and made with beautiful gros point embroidery in rose colorings. Bag hangs from wrist by strap and opens in novel fashion, disclosing silk moire lining with purse and mirror.

For Father and the Boys

—are wonderful Bates-Street shirts on sale at Talbot's, 395 Washington St. These are the finest shirts made and if the man of the house can't be on hand to take advantage of this special merchandise, the women should!



There are two special lots. Regular $3.50 shirts of fine quality madras, cheviot and English broadcloth are now selling for $2.65. Both white and colors as well as rayon stripes. Come with collars attached for semi-sport wear, also neckband style for the business man. All sizes and sleeve lengths.

Talbot's have assembled a marvelous assortment for this sale, which they have only twice a year. There are the best values for men's shirts in Boston.

Highest quality imported English broadcloth and excellent rayon shirts that are generally five and six dollars are now at the extraordinary low price of $3.45. Genuine bargains—and genuine Bates-Street shirts.

An added attraction is offered by Talbot's of their usual high-grade shirts for $1, $1.29 and $1.75. Repps, percales and madras shirts at $1 have full-size body with white collar attached or collarband, and because of their extra special value, only six are sold to a customer.

Violets for Valentines

A crimson heart shaped box—a beautiful bunch of deep purple violets—together the perfect Valentine.

Penn the Florist, at 124 Tremont St., is selling wonderful ones. Think of an enormous bunch of a hundred of these lovely fragrant blossoms in a red heart box! I do hope someone will send me some. Don't you? Penn is selling them complete for only $4.00. You know these big bunches alone are generally $4.00 without the emblematic valentine box which makes them much more appropriate and lovely for February the 14th.

For just a little more Penn has pastel tinted heart shaped boxes with a large bunch of violets hand painted on the top and holding a hundred violets, too. They make a beautiful ribbon or work box for milady's boudoir afterwards.

Penn's flowers are always so fresh and lovely, you know you are getting value and beauty for your money.

These violets in heart boxes are the best valentines yet. They would thrill the heart of any girl.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Cards Out for That Smart Event, the Bachelors' Dance, February 19

CARDS FOR THAT SMART-est of smart late season events, the bachelors' dance on February 19 at the Algonquin Club bear in their accepted black and white names of notable young eligibles to the count of twelve.

FREDERICK S. ALLEN, Roger Amory, Powell M. Cabot, W. E. Felton, Samuel E. Peabody, Gilbert L. Steward and Philip Wharton each are down on the magic pasteboards as prospective hosts.

AMORY COOLIDGE and his brother, T. Jefferson Coolidge; Dudley L. Pickman, Jr., Francis M. Weld and Harold S. Vanderbilt complete the dozen—a merry set to do the honors at this most distinctive of affairs.

FOR BE IT KNOWN that guests of the "Bachelors" are a "Two Hundred" of socially elect—dashing and attractive young matrons from Boston and Gotham and girls and young men of cosmopolitan background and accepted place within the sacred circle.

HAPPY IS THE BUD (at the "Bachelors" she needs must be spoken of in the singular) whose marked social success during her first Winter gives her place in the magic list. To be a bud and a guest of the "Bachelors" at one and the same time is a measure of popularity that is the lot of few.

SPEAKING OF DANCES, the Useless Club's ball at the Ritz in New York took a notable clique from Boston to Gotham. The "Useless" Club repeats the bachelor theme for once a member succumbs to Cupid's darts he's no longer counted as belonging to that joyous organization.

DINNERS GALORE preceded the dance—one of the largest having Harley Fiske and Mrs. Fiske as host and hostess at their home in Gotham's smart East Eighties. Charles A. Clark, Jr., was another host, his dinner being given at the Ritz.

THE ONE-TIME Marion Mason, erstwhile Bostonian of the successful circle, now occupying a highly individual niche in the New York set as Mrs. Richard T. Wilson, was a Useless Club guest for its annual Gotham ball.

OTHERS BIDDEN were Miss Eleonora Sears, Miss Virginia Gardner, Miss Helen Grew, the Theodore Grosvenors (she is the lovely blonde who was Anita Strawbridge of Bryn Mawr), Robert Bennett, Ernest Lovering and Evan Spaulding.

THE GEORGE WHITNEYS (he is a leading Useless Club light), Paul Barron Watson, Jr., John W. Watson and Robert Rand journeyed to the Ritz for the festivity. As to titled guests, no less than three much-paragraphed Countesses were bidden.

ONE SUCH WAS the Countess Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte and a second the Countess Salm von Hoogstraten. In all it was just such a merry company as the Useless Club is wont to gather for its hospitalities, be the scene Boston or its neighbor, Gotham.

AMID THE BRILLIANT whirl of Boston's Grand Opera Season as claiming Society's first thought the Smart Set crowded in Trinity Church for the high noon Taylor-Davis nuptials. The bride's handsome white satin and silver gown was extremely becoming.

BRIDAL MAIDENS in apricot chiffon with wide satin bats of the same warm tint made bright color, within the stately edifice and without the church, as they run the gauntlet of the uninvited curious who ever love to view seven at a distance the lovely bride and her attending flock.

AS MISS ELIZABETH TAYLOR, daughter of the William O. Taylors of Beacon street, the bride was but briefly a bud before joining future bride ranks as the fiancee of Benjamin Crowninshield Davis. After a wedding journey southward the Davises will be at home at No. 101 Charles street.

MRS. EUGENE V. R. THAYER, a handsome youthful matron much at home in the smart Gotham atmosphere where she and Mr. Thayer have their home. She was formerly Mrs. Frederick Prince, Jr., and before that Miss Elizabeth Harding.

MESDAMES PHILIP L. SALMONSTALL, H. Russel Ivers, Alice L. B. Gerlach, Marguerite Dowdell and Helen A. Woodworth poured tea at the Theatre Guild's recent hospitality for members and guests who rotated about Miss Jeanne Eagles as star attraction.

THE TEA WAS ONE of the first affairs set in the Guild's new home. For now the Guild flourishes in that small slice of London-like streets and buildings set down between the Embankment and Charles street, nestling at the foot of Beacon Hill.

NO. 7 BYRON STREET, is the Guild's new address, and Byron street may be found if one treads a way through Brimmer street to a narrow thoroughfare once—the halcyon days when Madame Grand rode behind a pair of shining horses with clanking harness—given over to stables.

NEW WAYS HAVE come upon this quiet section and today it is the desirable abode of musicians and artists, doctors and social lights whose motors shoot through streets hardly wider than country lanes and albeit quite as sequestered.

COUNTLESS FELICITATIONS were cabled over the seas (under cover rather) to Comsander C. L. N. Newall and Mrs. Newall (Olive Tennyson Foster) upon the birth to them of a daughter in late January.

THE NEWALLS are living in England at Maywood Shaw, Ashtead, Surrey. Commander Newall being, I believe, attached to the Royal air forces.

YOUTH CONFESSES TO 56 ROBBERIES

Detroit, Feb. 9.—Fifty-six robberies in 1925 were confessed by Leo Willette, 20, who was arrested Saturday, police say. Assistant Prosecutor W. Gomer Krbe says Willette has been identified as the slayer of Dave Zober, who was shot and killed September 24, 1925, in front of his near-beer saloon at No. 14 West Larned street. Willette is said by the police to have admitted that he averaged a holdup a week and that his total loot for the year was about $10,000.

THESE SHEEP HAVE NO TAILS TO WAG

Brookings, S. D., Feb. 9.—Nine years' experimental work in the development of a tailless breed of sheep, under the direction of Professor James W. Wilson, director of the South Dakota experiment station at State College, is beginning to show results.

Lambs have been born in the State College flock with tails so short that they do not have to be docked. They have been developed from crossing native Siberian rams with ewes of the Shropshire, Hampshire and Rambouillet breeds.

BISHOP OF IOWA OPPOSES MODIFYING "DRY" LAW

Davenport, Ia., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—The Right Rev. Theodore N. Morrison, Episcopal Bishop of Iowa, is not in accord with the views of Dr. James Empringham, national superintendent of the Chuch Temperance Society, who recently advocated modification of the Volstead law. Bishop Morrison said today he believed there would be as much booch and as many bootleggers under a modified liquor law as there now are, because the American man who drinks wants a strong liquor and the presence of a quick, effective stimulant.

FINE 3 FOR NEW YORK FUEL SMOKE NUISANCE

TO DEMONSTRATE MUSIC SYSTEM OF PIUS X. CHOIR

A demonstration of the Justine Ward method of music will be given at the Convent of the Sacred Heart, No. 283 Commonwealth avenue, on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock and in the afternoon at 4. The demonstration will be under the patronage of His Eminence Cardinal O'Connell, and will show the method of singing of the Pius X. choir.

It will be conducted by Mother Stevens, director of the Pius X. Choir of Liturgical Music at New York. Through the generosity of the Cardinal Mother Stevens will bring from New York a group of children who have been trained wholly according to the Justine Ward method.

30 Below Zero

Tupper Lake, N. Y., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—The coldest weather of the winter was recorded here today, the official temperature being given as thirty degrees below zero. The cold snap was unexpected as comparatively warm weather prevailed yesterday.

WIFE SAYS MESERVE CRUEL IN SUIT FOR DIVORCE

The great open spaces of Wyoming were the scene of many cruelties practised upon Mrs. Anna S. Meserve by her husband, George W. Meserve, according to the wife's story on the witness stand in Middlesex Probate Court today. Mrs. Meserve seeks a divorce charging cruelty and desertion.

They were married in 1914, she told the court, when she was living with her parents on their farm in Sherburn and he was a draughtsman employed in Boston. She wanted to get away from the farm, and they went to Wyoming to visit her cousin, Lawrence S. Fuller, who conducted a ranch there.

Both the husband and wife liked the ranch life during their brief visit, so they came back East and pooled their money to buy a ranch of their own. Mrs. Meserve put $12,000 in the family pool, she told the court, while her husband put in $200.

His cruelties began, the wife said, when they had their own ranch 25 miles from the railroad and three miles from their nearest neighbor. He would ride away and not return for weeks at a time, she said, leaving her to cook for ten cowboys.

Two months before her first child was born, she said, he knocked her down, and on several occasions he knocked her down, punched her in the face, and caused her nose to bleed.

She finally left the ranch and returned to her mother in Sherborn, and she is now living in Marblehead.

Mrs. Meserve testified her husband deserted her shortly after the first child was born. On cross-examination she admitted she had ceased to love him at that time.

The witness also admitted she had told her mother-in-law the only way her husband could see the other two children was by special arrangement. The witness denied she had refused to accept money from her uncle's estate.

LAST OF MONITOR'S CREW DEAD AT 85

Elizabeth, N. J., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Willis Bamford Drake, eighty-five years old, believed to be the last survivor of the crew of the U. S. S. Monitor of Civil War fame, was dead at his home here today. Drake claimed to have kept a promise made to his mother when he was six years old that he would never swear, drink, use tobacco or gamble.

He always contended that the Merrimack sank from design by her own crew and not from effects of gunfire from the Monitor.

CONGRESS ASKS COAL "TIP" FROM COOLIDGE

Washington, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—President Coolidge was asked today by Representative Bloom, Democrat, New York, to make a public pronouncement as to the necessities of the anthracite situation. Any legislation the President might propose, Mr. Bloom said in a letter sent to the White House, would be approved by Congress within 24 hours.

At 8:00 tonight station WEEI will present a novel program from New York. This will be called a "Boy Scout Program," and will be featured by addresses from such prominent men as Dan Beard and Baden Powell, who have done so much to make the Boy Scout movement such a success. This program comes at an early hour, so as to not interfere with the youngster's bedtime.

BOSTON RADIO AMERICAN

VOICING THE GREAT DEMOCRACY OF THE AIR

SAMUEL CURTIS, JR., Radio Editor

Radio Auction Bridge will come from WNAC at 10:00. The contestants in tonight's game will be Mrs. E. L. Bradbury, John R. Thompson, Jr., Wilbur C. Whitehead and Milton C. Work. The management of stations which broadcast these bridge games are highly desirous of receiving comments from the fans as to whether or not they appreciate this sort of broadcast.

CO-OPERATION NEEDED TO CLEAR AIR

The nine radio supervisors cannot possibly investigate and locate all the interference reported, nor a hundredth part of the disturbing, the radio public must help solve its own problems.

If the air is to be cleared of its many types of electrical disturbances, radio and otherwise, Government officials declare, radio dealers, amateurs and fans must assist the overworked supervisors and inspectors.

When local interference is noted a conscientious effort by the fan to run it down should be made, calling in neighbors to aid if necessary. In many instances amateurs can be found who are able, equipped and willing to co-operate, through community interests. Most of the electric power companies and radio dealers are also disposed to assist when possible. The supervisors should and as Washington will also advise and assist volunteer "trouble shooters" who make reports.

In many localities organizations composed of radio experts, amateurs and listeners have been formed to eliminate objectionable interference. Such co-operation is of inestimable assistance to the Government supervisors and inspectors, who have to cover great stretches of territory, including several states in most districts, and cannot possible make a visit to every community, even once a year.

If the communities would clear up the obvious troubles and leave only the difficult problems to the inspectors, great progress could be made, the supervisors say. Listeners' associations organized to eliminate local interference have been active in many places; among those which have come to the attention of the Department are the following: Butte, Mont.; New York City, Norfolk, Va., Indianapolis, and San Diego. Amateurs alone not only police the air among themselves, but as listeners in many places. These youngsters are equipped to run down interference and possess the ability and skill of embryo radio engineers.

An engineer of a well illustrating company in Boston has recently perfected a special portable radio receiving set designed to locate interference, which he calls a "radio interference locator. It has worked well in running down trouble on both audio and radio frequencies, in locating sparking motors operating oil heaters and refrigerators, leaky transformers and even tree grounds. His [illegible] brought remedies from owners.

USING THE WAVEMETER

Showing how the wavemeter is used in logging distant stations on a set whose dial settings you are not familiar with. During the recent international radio tests, the crew of the American's listening station at Pembroke made use of a specially designed oscillating wavemeter. This instrument was practically the same as a miniature broadcasting station whose wavelength could be varied at will. Distant stations were first logged on an eight-tube superheterodyne and then calibrated on the wavemeter scale. A switch was then thrown which cut in one of the standard receivers. Then, with the wavemeter sending out a strong signal of its own, the receiver to be tested was accurately tuned to the distant wavelength.

DX Conditions Last Night

By The Doctor.

Conditions were only fair. Air seems very noisy and the heterodyning between the shorter wave stations was bad. I brought in CHYC in Montreal, and at various times this station was louder than WJZ. Local reception was good, but WEEI's wave appeared to be heterodyned by that of some other station, causing a low pitched squeal to be heard in the background. Noone.

SMALL SALARY BUDGET AIDS THRIFT

If you are mourning because you can't take advantage of the wonderful bargains in fur coats right now, or maybe a pair of Russian boots, just count your blessings compared to those of a little lady who asked me last week to make up a budget that would help her save even a few cents each week.

She has a husband and six children. The eldest boy works. His wages with his father's total $31. (We budgeted another $31 income a week or two ago, but circumstances alter cases, and this one will be a bit different.) These people pay $4 a week for rent, 90c. for insurance, $2 for installment on furniture, and the rest for heat, light and food. The mother says she cannot save a cent, and is most discouraged.

I would recommend the six-envelope system here, and these allotments:

Rent, $4 weekly; food, $13 weekly; clothing, $4.65; operating (heat and light), $4.65 weekly; savings, $1 weekly; miscellaneous, $4.70. This includes $2 weekly on furniture, 90c. insurance, and $1.80 towards doctor's and dentist's bills, newspaper, movies, etc.

Your children are of course your first thought. Milk they must have, and cereal in abundance, especially whole wheat cereal and old-fashioned oatmeal, the Scotch or Irish kind, bought in bulk and cooked for hours the day before, or overnight on the back of the range.

Corn meal will be another good friend to you. Modern children do not seem to care for cornmeal mush, but they will eat it if you will pour it into bread pans to cool, then slice, roll in salted flour and fry golden brown in drippings.

Serve with imitation maple syrup made with sugar, water and maple flavoring.

I would make my own bread, if I were you, and don't forget that the dark breads are better for you all than white. Fortunately eggs are quite reasonable just now. Make the most of them; eggs and milk are the first things to be purchased on your grocery list.

Dried apples, dried prunes, dried peaches and dried apricots are all good friends, and must take the place of the more expensive fresh fruits for the children.

Raisins are tasty and add value to the cereal. Cook them right in with it. Canned tomatoes contain valuable vitamines, and macaroni and rice can well take the place of the sky-high potatoes.

Cocoa should be a strong ally; make it with half milk and half boiling water; enrich with a little evaporated milk.

I am sending a book of macaroni recipes that I am sure will be helpful, and one for dates and another for tapioca. Watch the special food sales advertised in the newspapers; buy carefully, prepare attractively and waste not at all. Do hope this has helped.

MARSHMALLOW FUDGE CAKE EASY TO MAKE, SAYS MARTHA LEE

Here's an Appetizing Marshmallow Fudge Cake

2 tbsp. butter
2 cups sugar
4 squares bitter chocolate, melted
2 eggs
2 cups cake flour
2 tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
milk
45 marshmallows

Cream the butter and sugar; add the melted chocolate. Put the yolks of the eggs into a cup; add enough milk to make 1½ cups. Add milk and flour alternately. Beat the whites of the eggs and fold them gently into the cake. Bake in 3 buttered and floured layer cake tins. While the cake is baking, cut the marshmallows into quarters with the scissors. (15 marshmallows to a layer). As soon as the cake is baked, remove it from the tins and place the marshmallows immediately between the layers and on top of the cake. The heat will melt them just enough to stick. Cover the top layer with fudge frosting made by melting 2 squares of chocolate, adding 1 cup of sugar, 1 tbsp. flour, and a few grains of salt, mixed together. When smooth add 1-3 cup of milk. Boil until it spins a thread. Add 2 tbsps. butter and ¼ tsp. vanilla; let cool; then beat until you can spread it without running, and pour it over the marshmallows. If by any chance the frosting should get too thick, reheat it over hot water until right to spread.

PROMOTE FOOT HEALTH

The average housewife walks many miles a day and often complains of her feet burning and smarting. For relief from this bathe the feet in tepid water in which a little baking powder has been dissolved.

There is an excellent foot tea which can be rubbed on. If you have none on hand you can massage the feet with cold cream and, leaving it on, wrap them in Turkish towels that have been rinsed in ice cold water. Keep the towels on until warm and smarting, then dry and dust with talcum powder.

Change your shoes frequently and your stockings every night, and be sure that your shoes fit properly. The modified health shoes can now be obtained in smart styles at moderate prices.

I don't mean the ones that look like policemen's boots and cause your friends to say, "She'd be quite tall if there wasn't so much turned up in feet," but the new plastic models on the straight, long line last.

HEARTS FOR VALENTINE FAVORS

Last week we left the party all excited over the coming prospect of refreshments so let's not keep them waiting and begin at once.

At any department store you can purchase little heart-shaped cutters with which to shape your sandwiches and cakes. An unusual filling for sandwiches is "Oriental Delight" that is made in this way:

Chop 2 thsps. each of Canton ginger and English walnuts. Moisten a cream cheese with about 2 tabps. of cream or rich milk and mix with the ginger and walnuts. Season with salt and paprika. Yum!—how good they are! I know lots of different, unusual fillings, both dainty and "hearty" that I'll be glad to send you if you care for them. Individual cakes with mocha, vanilla, and chocolate frostings are delicious, too, especially if you dress them up with pink hearts put on with a pastry tube or cornucopia. The frosting is made with confectioner's sugar, milk and pure vinegable coloring. Then you can pass around dainty trays, with streamers of hearts hanging from the handles, filled with salted nuts, heart-shaped candies, and red and white striped sticks of candy that seem to be particularly fitted to a Valentine's party.

Don't forget that I'm full up with ideas to help make your Valentine's party a nine days' wonder. Just drop me a line for hints for favors, games and refreshments.

Today's Thought

The years speed by, but in their flight
They leave behind a trail of friendship warm and true;
In this New Year, by mois and might,
I hope to make an even stauncher friend of YOU.

Good Food Values in and Around Boston

IN SPOTLESS TOWN

EVEN THE CHIMNEYS are kept chemically clean, with an imported product that removes soot from stove pipes and chimneys as if by magic. Just put the package in the fire. Harmless chemical substance does the dirty work. Costs 50 cents. A hint for better baking.

I'VE MADE AN INVESTIGATION AND AN INVESTMENT in the most marvellous vacuum cleaner ever! Motor separate in dustproof case. Bag enclosed, too. Nothing to push around but a fairy wand. Saves cleaner's bills for draperies, overcoats, fur and rugs. Dusts, too. Even cleans georgette lamp shades without harming a thread. Unique co-operative plan helps you get a machine practically free. I'll tell you how.

BRING THE ORIENT to your table. Japanese Rice Wafers lend distinction to bridge or tea parties. Paper thin, crisp and dainty. A generous tin for 35 cents.

DUCKLINGS ARE DELICIOUS. Specially grown for a certain market. Plump and tender; 45 cents a pound. Let me tell you how to cook them. Real duck dinner right in your own home. Wonderful sandwiches and entrees from the leftovers, too. A "different" dish for winter appetites.

PACKED ON A PORTO RICO plantation for you are selected grapefruit. Solid meat from 3 big ones in convenient tin for 25 cents. So ripe they need no sugar. Serve chilled for breakfast; balance in delicious luncheon or dinner salad. Indispensable for fruit cocktails. A tonic for your tummy.

LOVERS OF GRIDDLE CAKES are enthusiastic about a certain prepared flour that gives the rich, nutty flavor of the whole wheat to pancakes. 35 cents big two-pound package. Try them with thin orange marmalade, or country sausage.

THERE ARE 57 varieties of potato salads, but my favorite is beyond suspicion. Made of best materials among spotless surroundings. An absolutely "different" flavor. Ever try it with Saturday night beans? Buy the beans at the same shop, too. There is no comparison with other beans!

AT THE SAME TIME perhaps you'd like to buy a luscious nut cake for 50 cents. Weighs about a pound and a quarter. Full of fresh brown eggs, country butter and cream.

DELECTABLE FOR BREAKFAST is a famous old Pennsylvania Dutch dish, Philadelphia scrapple. A pork product with spices and corn meal added. Slice and fry in a hot cider. Thirty cents a pound for a brand in which you can have confidence.

LAST BUT NOT LEAST, a new preserve. Luscious fresh prune-plums for 30 cents. Delicious for Sunday night supper with hot biscuits.

DON'T HESITATE to ask for one or all of these items. It's so easy to clip out the column, mark it and attach your name, address, and a loose stamp for a prompt reply.

Best Flavoring Extracts Most Economical

Condiments and flavoring, properly speaking, are not foods, but are food accessories. They should, however, be considered in a group, for intelligent use of them gives variety to cooking and zest to the appetite. It is also claimed that flavoring stimulates digestion. In this group we have the flavoring extract. Pure extracts are expensive. When buying any extract, vanilla, lemon, almond, etc., read the label. Be sure that it is marked "pure" and put up by a reliable house.

NOVELTIES FOR LAMP SHADE TRIMMINGS

Now that we have covered our lamp, and sewed on the gold braid between the panels, we come to the fascinating work of trimming it. I have just finished mine, and truly I had no idea how lovely it would be when the last stitch was taken.

I can hardly wait to make a shade for a Junior floor lamp, next, and then a bed light, and if my courage is still good, one of the lovely taffeta ones for my bedroom.

I'm going to keep my first attempt down here at the office all this week so that any of you who care to may drop in to see it.

I discovered such lovely things when I was looking for trimmings. Imported amber and crystal fringe in iridescent colorings; really the latest thing and lights up so beautifully.

Usually this is $5 or $6 a yard, but I found it for only $2.75 for the very wide, and $1.75 a yard for the narrower. This really puts any shade in a class by itself.

I am going to use the crystals on a larger shade later. For this one I used a double fringe in gold and mulberry to harmonize with my mulberry over American Beauty shade. After the fringe is sewed on, the final row of gold braid makes the finish.

Gold all-over lace is exquisite for panels or even covering the entire lamp, and if you shop wisely is not exorbitant. Loveliest of all coverings, however, I think is the gorgeous new Paisley gold tissue cloth, the very latest importation.

Gold lace motifs, in graceful basket shapes, make attractive panels. I found some, imported, trimmed with 14 tiny rosebuds, for $1.25 apiece. This was such a very special price that I bought two for my Junior lamp.

For a real treat— brew Tetley's the English way

TRY Tetley Tea and brew it the English way. 'Twill be a treat to talk about!

For more than a century, Joseph Tetley and Company, of London, have furnished Great Britain with fine tea—her favorite beverage.

You'll never know how good tea can be until you try Tetley's the English way. Get a package from your grocer and follow the famous old recipe that's printed on it.

ASKS $12,000 OF "WIDOW" NOLAN ESTATE

Trial of the suit of John McCabe of Walnut park, Roxbury, against the estate of William Whiting ("Widow") Nolan, late Harvard tutor, was begun today in Superior Court, where McCabe seeks to recover $12,000 in back salary as a caretaker.

McCabe alleges the $15,000 is due him for services in caring for four two-family houses owned by Nolan in Walnut park, between June, 1913, and April, 1923. Nolan died in June, 1923.

Testifying in the suit today, McCabe said it was his duty to collect the rents of the four houses and perform other offices, for which he was to receive $125 a month.

HEIRESS ELOPES WITH FORMER CONVICT

Connecticut Girl Living With Dancing Teacher Husband in Detroit

Webster, Feb. 8.—Defying parental opposition, Albert Rondeau, former dancing teacher and jail inmate, and Miss Elinor Atwood, Terryville, Ct., heiress, eloped to Toledo, Ohio, and were married.

Detectives employed by the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Atwood, located the couple living in a Detroit lodging house.

The marriage occurred despite all efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Atwood to prevent it, although the young woman at one time returned her engagement ring after learning Rondeau had served a jail sentence.

This sentence was imposed following charges made while Rondeau was conducting a dancing class in Webster. After his release he eventually arrived at Hartford, and on opening a dancing class Miss Atwood become one of his pupils.

Miss Atwood is heir to $100,000 of the million dollar estate left by B. W. Plumb, vice-president of the Eagle Manufacturing Company of Terryville, which is a suburb of Hartford. She was a first year student at the Hartford Hospital Training School for Nurses.

The couple disappeared from Hartford last week at about the same time, and the girl's parents at once began a search for her, which resulted in discovery of the newlyweds in Detroit.

GOODWIN WILL BE SPEAKER

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin will address the members of the Home Furnishers' Association of New England at the annual banquet on February 18 at the Metropolitan Theatre Building, it was announced today. The feature will mark the twentieth anniversary of the organization.

Howard B. Josselyn heads the arrangements committee which is preparing a diversified program. Other members of the committee are R. A. McMahon, Felix I. Smith, Victor A. Heath, Hugh McLean, LeBaron Atherton, Alonzo E. Yont and Morris Bernstein.

The organization was founded in 1906 by the late Charles E. Osgood, who was well known throughout furniture trade circles of the entire country.

The banquet will be an outstanding event in a week of activity in the furniture trade of Boston. During the week several of the upper floors of the Metropolitan Theatre building will be given over to furniture displays under the auspices of the Boston Furniture Market Association. This organization plans a regular wholesale market for New England furniture in Boston.

NEW PLEA FOR U. S. TO BUY CAPE CANAL

Washington, Feb. 8 (A.P.)—New England as a manufacturing centre requires the best transportation facilities possible, it was argued today before the House Rivers and Harbors Committee at a hearing on the bill proposing government purchase of the Cape Cod Canal.

"A large part of the transportation is by water," said Major-General Harry Taylor, chief of army engineers, "and the Cape Cod Canal is a very important link in the system."

HINES HUMOR AT OLYMPIA

Johnny Hines gets a job as a cub reporter, draws an assignment to "cover" a Kentucky feud and, among a number of other startling stunts, makes practical use of the golf ball as a lethal weapon in his latest film release, "Rainbow Riley," at the Olympia.

He no sooner sets foot in the "shoot-'em-up" territory, than he becomes closely involved in the warring factions—much to the general merriment. With both sides set upon his extermination, he elopes with a fair school teacher after sending a telegram to his newspaper with the information that there is "unprecedented danger."

The arrival of the message in the city room of the distant home office is taken to read "president in danger," so it is not to be wondered at that, apparently, the entire standing army of the United States is sent forth to save the day for all concerned. Brenda Bond, Bradley Barker and Dan Mason support the star.

Shorter film subjects and a bill of vaudeville complete the program.

FILM MYSTERY AT FENWAY

Romance, mirth, mystery, stolen gems and double crossing detectives furnish thrilling entertainment in "The Danger Girl," Priscilla Dean's latest film release at the Fenway.

As in so many of her previous pictures, Miss Dean is again surrounded with many dangerous, gun wielding individuals, whose dark plottings seem constantly about to engulf her, but, being something of a past mistress in the art of the crook drama, the fair star easily and naturally eludes the desperate gentlemen at every turn.

True to the best traditions of mystery plays, the characters of "The Danger Girl," keep the audience guessing as to which of them are the crooks and which are the virtuous; but unlike most dramas on this order, there is humor of a very definite and amusing kind—supplied in no small measure by some very excellent subtitles.

SKATE CONTEST STIRS SOUTH BOSTON

Columbus Park Will Witness Keen Competition In Ice Classic

From Columbus Park, South Boston, comes the call to Boston skaters.

The next eliminations in the Boston Evening American's Gold and Silver Skate Jubilee races will be staged at the South Boston park next Saturday afternoon.

South Boston speedsters had evidently been waiting for the announcement of the local tourney, for, the instant the date was given publicity, mail, post-marked "South Boston" came pouring into the office of the American. There is no question but that next Saturday's eliminations will be one of the best series ever staged in the American's classics of the ice.

But the more that enter the merrier, so get in your entry early. All that is necessary is to fill out the entry blank that accompanies this article and mail it to the Skate Editor, Boston Evening American, No. 5 Winthrop Square. There is no admission fee, no red tape of any kind.

Already crowds of South Boston youngsters have been making their way to two points of interest in the city proper, the Wright and Ditson sporting goods store on Washington street, and "Classified Corner" at Summer and Devonshire streets.

Here are on exhibition the gold and silver skates that are to be given the winners and second-place winners in the final races.

In addition the winners in next Saturday's trials will receive silver skates quite apart from the final awards.

In addition to the races themselves there will be a program that will make the day a gala one in South Boston, for the list will include four nationally known fancy skaters as well as a clown skater.

Nobody can miss Columbus Park. All that is necessary it to go to Andrew square and walk the short distance up Preble street.

Those eligible for Saturday's races are South Boston skaters who come within the age limit in the various classes.

The classes are: 220 yards for boys under fourteen; 440 yards for boys under sixteen; 880 yards for boys under eighteen; 440 yards for girls under eighteen; 880 yards for girls over eighteen.

SUES TO HALT COURT ENTRY

Washington, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—An effort to invoke the power of the American courts to prevent entrance of the United States into the World Court was made in a proceeding begun here today by Benjamin Catchings, a Washington lawyer.

The action was brought in the Supreme Court, which was asked by Catchings for permission to file a suit requiring Secretary Kellogg to show cause why he should not be restrained from consummating this country's entrance into the world tribunal.

Contending membership in the tribunal would be unconstitutional, the petitioner declared the resolution of adherence adopted by the Senate rested on an invalid use of judicial and legislative authority.

A Live Serial of Love and Temptation Right Here In Boston

READ THIS FIRST:

FLOSSIE and MARY ROSE MIDDLETON are two pretty sisters, the daughters of a widowed mother. They work for Dexter & Co., big Congress street bond firm.

Mary Rose is secretary to JOHN MANNERS, the sales manager, and is in love with him. But he's engaged to DORIS HINIG, an heiress. Because of her feeling for him, Mary Rose repeatedly refuses to marry DR. TOM FITZROY.

Flossie, a born vamp, carries on a flirtation with the head of the concern, HILARY DEXTER, although she's going to marry his secretary, young SAM JESSUP.

"I suppose you'll be the next one to get married!" asked John. Mary Rose shook her head. Her lips trembled. Her eyes filled with tears.

John Manners falls in love with Mary Rose, as he never has been in love with Doris Hinig, and tells her so. When the two sisters quarrel, Flossie tells John that Mary Rose is "just stringing him along" and really adores Tom and intends to marry him. Manners believes her and Mary Rose is hurt and puzzled at his sudden coldness. She tells him she is going to leave the concern.

MRS. DEXTER finds out about her husband's love affair with Flossie. At the office she mistakes Mary Rose for Flossie and accuses her. Mary Rose takes Flossie's blame and the snubbing from all the girls in the office. Dexter goes too far in his love making and Flossie learns how little respect a married man has for a girl who "plays around" with him. The next day she elopes with Sam Jessup, and Dexter, who still is infatuated by her, wires Sam to take two weeks for his honeymoon and a $10 raise.

(Now Go on With the Story)

(Copyright, 1926, Famous Features.)

CHAPTER LI.

No word came from the honeymooners for more than a week.

Mary Rose's heart ached for her mother, who waited with pathetic eagerness for a letter from Flossie. A letter that never came.

"Well, I guess the baby's just forgotten us, Mary Rose," she would say. "She has Sam now, and she doesn't need us any more. But that's the way of the world—the young things grow up and run away, and forget. I suppose you'll be leaving me, too, one of these days."

Mary Rose would shake her head. "No, I'll never marry anybody." She would say with firm decision "You know what Aunt Henny Blair says—that I look like an old maid already."

And her mother would sigh and go upstairs to her own room, where she was making a new dress for Flossie—a soft, gold-colored thing in which Flossie would look like a blonde dryad.

She had dragged an old trunk out of the attic and in it she was packing all of Flossie's clothes—running fresh pink bridey looking ribbons through the "Teddy bears" and nightgowns, mending the thin chiffon stockings and putting new bindings on the tiny felt hats that were the only kind Flossie wore.

"I may as well fix up the few clothes she has," she would say grimly to Mary Rose, "because she's not likely to have many new ones if she waits for Sam Jessup to buy them for her!"

Then one morning when Mary Rose got to the office she found a letter lying on her desk. Across it her name was scratched in pencil.

Old Ironsides' Embodies Luck of American Navy

PATRIOTS RALLY TO RESCUE

Boston Evening American Opens Its Columns to Public Subscriptions

Have you contributed to the fund to save "Old Ironsides?"

Do you desire that this ship, which figured so prominently in the early naval history of this country, shall be junked or preserved as a national shrine?

It's up to YOU. If you want the ship reconditioned send a contribution to the Boston Evening American. What you send, no matter how small an amount, will be gladly acknowledged in the columns of this newspaper. We will print your name and the amount of your gift in the honor roll.

Contributions should be sent to "Old Ironsides Fund, Boston Evening American, No. 5 Winthrop square, Boston, Mass." All monies received by this newspaper will be turned over to Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, commandant of the First Naval District, Boston Navy Yard.

The two most recent contributions are one of $78.43 from Fernandia, Florida, Lodge of Elks, and $987 from Grand Rapids, Michigan, lodge.

To stimulate interest in the campaign for the restoration of this grand old frigate, Lieutenant Comander E. S. R. Brandt, U. S. N., stationed at Boston Navy Yard, has written an interesting article entitled "The Luck of 'Old Ironsides,'" which the Boston American will print. The first instalment follows:

THE LUCK OF OLD IRONSIDES.

By Lieut. Comdr. E. S. R. Brandt, U. S. N.

It is still a favorite superstition among sailors that some ships are lucky and others unlucky and many instances in the careers of vessels seem to indicate that some do bear a charmed life while others carry Neptune's curse.

There is no doubt that in the days of sailing vessels a ship which bore a reputation for luck inspired a dash-and-dare spirit in her successive commanders which encouraged a maximum of effort and professional skill, while a ship with a record of disaster induced a nervous caution not altogether necessary and productive of more disaster.

Just how much there is to luck no sailor will admit when he is on a successful ship.

But let unfortunate things happen and the sailorman begins to

ACCUSES SERVICE BOARD

"Owned Body and Soul" by the Rail Corporations, Declares Senator Rice

The Public Utilities Commission is "owned body and soul" by the public service corporations of the State, Senator Abbott R. Rice of Newton charged today at a hearing at the State House.

"You can't get them to do anything," he declared.

Rice made his charge while listening as a member of the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs to a plea by Gene F. Nickerson, representing the United Improvement Association, for an investigation of the feasibility of electrifying the railroads.

"This bill calls upon the Public Utilities Commission to make the investigation," said Rice. "Do you think that you'd get a square deal from that body? You'd never get it in your life."

CAUSE $900,000 FIRES.

Rice added that there has been an average of 152 fires caused by locomotives on the Boston & Albany in the last five years. Although repeatedly brought to the attention of the commissioners, he said, they have never moved to make the roads properly screen their engines.

Statistics, he continued, show that railroad locomotives have caused $900,000 in property damage within the last few years, 75 per cent. of which, he asserted, could have been prevented.

Nickerson charged that the reason that the roads haven't started electrifying in metropolitan Boston is because they are tied up with the coal interests. More than one-half of the coal coming into New England, he said, is used by the railroads.

COST 40 TO 100 MILLION.

The cost of electrifying the 1,000 miles of track in Greater Boston was variously estimated at between $40,000,000 to $100,000,000.

Nickerson argued that abatement of the smoke nuisance alone will save millions of dollars in property. Had the roads put through electrification, he asserted, they would never have thought of abandoning their branch lines.

The speaker also brought out that the Public Utilities commissioners have had the power to order electrification since 1913, but have never made a move in that direction.

$150,000 Blaze

North Pelham, N. H., Feb. 8 (I.N.S.)—The Bloom Building, in the heart of the business district, was destroyed by fire today with a loss estimated at $150,000. Five firemen were overcome by smoke.

QUEEN'S COUNSEL

Queen of Romance

THE GOOD CONSCIENCE

CROWNED heads are perhaps more exposed to criticism than are any other human beings on earth.

Because they are placed, as I say in my book, "Crowned Queens," "Aloof on lonely heights," they are as conspicuous as lighthouses and therefore almost public property. Therefore, too, have they to submit to the ill-humor of every man.

The story of the old fellow and his son and donkey comes in more handy for kings than for anyone else:

The old man is riding the donkey, his son walking beside him. The passers-by are disgusted.

"What — the father riding and letting his poor son walk!"

Not caring to be considered a heartless person, the father gets off the donkey and puts his son on.

"Oh!" exclaim the passers-by, "what an impudent youngster, riding comfortably along whilst his poor father has to walk!"

The man wags his head and gets up onto the donkey behind his son.

"Poor donkey—what a shame!" cry those who see it.

"Dear me," sighs the old man, "now we shall have to carry the donkey!"

So father and son hoist the donkey onto their backs, and what do the passers-by say?

"Oh—the fools, the fools!"

And fools they were to imagine they could satisfy everybody!

I try not to be such a fool. There IS no satisfying everybody. Besides, those who look up and criticize, how can they know the whys and wherefores, the ins and outs, the two inevitable sides, of the situation they are condemning?

The only satisfactory thing is to do one's best always, with all one's heart and intelligence, never to have a bad intention nor a thought of hatred—to have, in short, your conscience clear. Then criticism rolls off you like water from a duck's back.

To be in peace with your own conscience is your strongest weapon. The old saying that "only truth can wound" is true.

So long as we know our motives are pure, our intentions sound and our spirit full of good-will, nothing can overcome us.

Of course we cannot help feeling a little hurt at being so misunderstood, but our consolation is to know within our hearts that we did our best.

And so, let others talk. Let the tongues wag this way and that. It cannot destroy the inner ME.

BRIDE-TO-BE FROM WEST CAN'T WED

Comes From Denver, Only to Find Yale Fiance Is Too Young

Genevieve Mumery, 21 years old, strikingly pretty and smartly dressed, traveled all the way from Denver, Col., to wed Robert M. Baker of New Haven, who, she said, is a Yale student, and then found all her plans knocked into a cocked hat in Boston today.

Miss Mumery, in filing marriage intentions at City Hall, gave the age of Baker as twenty years and then was informed that the license would be held up until Baker obtained the consent of his parents.

Her winsome face clouded with dull amazement and she left City Hall saying that she had an appointment to meet Baker in the city.

She had traveled, she said, all the way from the other side of the Rockies.

She gave her address as Clermont street, Denver, Col. and, although she gave no occupation, registry officials said she had the air and appearance of a student.

Baker, she said, lives at No. 2o6 Prospect street, New Haven, and is a Yale student. His father, according to Miss Mumery, is Marion W. Baker of Illinois. She said that she was born in Milford, Mich.

She was painfully disappointed and visibly disturbed when informed that young men under 21 years of age may not marry in this State without parental consent.

Lynn Pupils to Help Save 'Old Ironsides'

The 12,000 pupils of the public and parochial schools of Lynn will make contributions to the "Save Old Ironsides" fund this week. The story of the wonderful old frigate, now tied at a pier in Boston navy yard will be told by the teachers after which collections will be made. The money will be turned over to Lynn Lodge of Elks who will forward it to the national committee.

DR. HSIEH RETURNS HERE ON WEDNESDAY

Dr. T. Hsieh, managing director of the Chinese Trade Bureau of Boston who has been lecturing for two weeks in Chicago and the middle West, will return to Boston Wednesday. Wednesday evening he will address the Miner Charitable Club of the Church of Redemption at Boylston and Ipswich streets, on the topic "An Easterner Facing the West."

On Thursday, at Young's Hotel, Dr. Hsieh will speak before the Boston Wholesale Grocers' Association.

3 ARRESTED IN SLASHING

Springfield, Feb. 8 (A.P.)—Byart Barfield, seventeen, and two companions were arrested today. Barfield being charged with cutting James McLane, a student at Springfield College. No charges have yet been placed against the others.

It is alleged that Barfield and the others arrested nearly ran down McLane and a fellow student with an automobile and that when McLane shouted at those in the car Barfield attacked McLane with a knife.

Barfield is said to have admitted stabbing and slashing McLane in the face and side.

Woman Dies at 93

Keene, N. H., Feb. 8 (A.P.)—Mrs. Abbie (Draper) Howes, aged ninety-three years, four months and twenty-five days, said to be the oldest resident of Swanzey, died early today at the home of her granddaughter.

TANK EXPLODES IN EVERETT

With a roar that could be heard for blocks, vaporizing tank No. 3 on the Beacon Oil reservation in Beacham street, Everett, exploded today, and sent flames shooting scores of feet in the air.

Firemen used the oil fire chemical and soon had the fire under control, but not until hundreds of persons had rushed to the scene.

This, the latest in the long series of fires that have occurred on the site, was caused by friction in an electric generator under the tank. The crude gasoline was soon in flames. No estimate has been made of the damage.

Madden Improves

Washington, Feb. 8 (A.P.)—Representative Madden of Illinois, ill with grip, was permitted to leave his bed today, although he is not yet ready to resume his duties in the House.

Three Die of Fever

Concord, N. H., Feb. 8 (A.P.)—Three deaths from scarlet fever have been reported in Lebanon, N. H., where all public assemblies have been banned up to February 15. It was announced today by Dr. Charles A. Weaver of the State Board of Health upon his return from that town. He said most cases were mild and that it was believed the disease is under control.

HARVARD GRID ROW ENDS RULE OF FISHER

CRISIS IN CHOOSING OF COACH

New Graduate Advisory Committee to Be Chosen to Solve Problem

athletics has been willing to accept the resignation of the football advisory group shows how wide the rift in Harvard athletics has grown.

Henry Pennypacker is chairman of the athletic committee but Fred Bingham, mentioned as coming director of Harvard athletics has been acting in his place. Pennypacker is out of town.

There has been a continual argument over the next coach all Fall. Leo Leary, Charlie Buell, Reggie Brown and countless others have been in the running strongly at one time or another. But the two committees could never come to any agreement.

OVER OUTSIDER?

There was a strong movement to bring in some man not a Harvard graduate as head coach [illegible] there [illegible] the internal troubles. Ed Robinson of Brown was [illegible] frequently named in this case.

It is believed that the break came because of the attempt to put an outsider in charge.

The football committee and Captain Coady agreed on a coach after several quick meetings.

But his name was not acceptable to the athletic committee. An alternative was named but refused to consider the job before there could be any fight about him.

Leo Leary, super-successful end coach, was the leading candidate at one period but he wouldn't take it. Charlie Buell, famous Harvard quarterback under Haughton had a strong following but he refused to sign under troubled conditions.

The fact that there was lack of harmony between the various athletic groups made most Harvard men considered unwilling to step in and become "goats."

It was this feeling that created the desire to go outside to find a man who might be able to cement the breaches and get a smooth system running once more.

Bob Fisher might have been [illegible] to reconsider his resignation as he did once before, but the impossibility of harmony and support made him shy off.

FISHER IS MUM.

He refused to comment on the resignation of his committee other than to say that his feelings were the same as those expressed in his letter quitting as a coach.

In that letter Fisher declared that he had had enough football and wanted to devote his future attention to business. The appointment as chairman of the advisory committee was accepted after Captain Coady had strongly urged Bob to help him along.

The statement given out by Fred Moore, graduate manager of Harvard athletics, was as follows:

"After numerous conferences of the Committee on Athletics with the chairman of the graduate football advisory committee and the football captain, it became evident that no agreement as to the selection of the next head coach could be reached which would assure the coach selected the confidence and whole-hearted support of both the committee and the captain.

"Under these conditions the advisory committee held a meeting February 3, thoroughly reviewed the situation and came to a conclusion which was expressed in the following vote transmitted to the Committee on Athletics:

"That this committee, after very careful consideration, have reluctantly come to the conclusion that the best interests of Harvard football would be served by asking the athletic committee to accept their resignations."

ACCEPTS RESIGNATION.

"The Committee on Athletics, at a meeting held Saturday afternoon February 6, expressed full appreciation of the efforts of the football committee and under the circumstances voted regretfully to accept the resignation.

"The Committee on Athletics does not plan to appoint a new football committee at the [illegible], but hopes that by conferences with members of the old committee and other football graduates a solution of the present problem both as to the appointment of a head coach and his advisory committee which will be satisfactory to all concerned may shortly be reached."

CRIMSON MEET B. A. A. SEXTET ON ICE

HARVARD.		BOS. ATH. ASSN
Haman, Zarakov	r.w.	l.w., W. Scott, Cabot
Chase, R. Scott	c.	c., Hodder, Hutchinson
Gross, Harding	l.w.	r.w., Taylor, Sayles
Clark, Coady	r.d.	l.d., Owen, Marshall
Pratt, Howe	l.d.	r.d., Stubbs, Dunlop
Cummings	g.	g., Langley, Hooper

By BILL GRIMES.

In order that the Boston Athletic Association and Harvard may be right for their league games on Friday and Saturday evenings respectively, these teams will meet in an exhibition game this evening on the Boston Arena.

The Crimson team will meet Yale in the first game of their annual series at the Arena on Saturday, while the Unicorn wearers are to resume their fight for first place in the Eastern Hockey Association next Friday with the St. Nicholas Club of New York.

Although this Harvard Boston Athletic Association game may be listed as an exhibition contest, there is enough rivalry between these aggregations to bring out the best hockey they possess. George Owen, Joe Stubbs, Clark Hodder, Willard Rice and Nelson Cabot, now playing with the Unicorn, are all former Harvard varsity players.

The Unicorn must be at top form this evening or the fast Harvard forwards will skate them ragged.

Helen Wills Easily Beats Miss Fischer

Cannes, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Helen Wills easily won her first match in the Carlton tournament today, defeating Miss E. Fischer, 6—0, 6—0.

The appearance of Helen Wills and Suzanne Lenglen, the queens of tennis, on the courts of the Carlton Club, in the tournament which opened today, has relegated to second place even King Carnival.

The prospect for a meeting between the French and American champions in the finals next Saturday has caused this to be known as the "gala tennis week."

Mlle. Lenglen drew a bye in the first round of the singles, and will not play until tomorrow.

Both champions, besides playing in the singles, are entered in the women's doubles. Suzanne being paired with Mlle. Didi Vlasto, France's No. 2 player, and Helen with Mlle. Contoslavos.

Miss Wills Praises Suzanne Lenglen

Cannes, Feb. 8 (I.N.S.).—Helen Wills is not in the least perturbed over the fact that she met defeat yesterday in the mixed doubles when pitted against Suzanne Lenglen.

The California girl looks forward to the possibility of meeting Suzanne in the singles of the Carlton Club tournament this week as "a lot of fun."

"My, what a fuss everyone is making about two girls who want to play a game of tennis," said Miss Wills today. "Really, nobody ever thinks about the fun I get out of tennis. In the first place, I came to France to study. That's work. When I play tennis, that's play and fun.

"Suzanne is a wonderful player, and though I have heaps of confidence in myself I wouldn't for the world attempt to predict the result."

Miss Wills took her defeat yesterday philosophically.

"My lobbing wasn't so good," she said. "I couldn't keep them in the back court. Naturally, Suzanne killed them off the net."

Both Miss Wills and Mlle. Lenglen drew byes in today's play.

Miss Wills is paired with Mlle. Contoslavos in the doubles and is not entered in the mixed doubles.

Suzanne is expected to withdraw from the doubles in order to save her strength for the singles.

Miss Wills learned much in yesterday's match though, one thing being that she cannot lob them to Suzanne.

Mrs. Wightman Sizes Up Helen's Chances

"The defeat of Miss Wills and her partner in mixed doubles yesterday by Miss Lenglen and her partner does not signify that the French tennis star will have a walkover when she plays singles with the American champion later in the week," said Mrs. George W. Wightman, one of the leading women players of Boston.

"It is conceded that Miss Lenglen is a better doubles player than Miss Wills, but I doubt if Miss Lenglen will be able to win love sets against Miss Wills. I expect Miss Wills will be defeated in her first match with Miss Lenglen but in later matches I expect the score will be closer. I do not regard Miss Lenglen so much superior to all women players as Bill Tilden, the American champion, is compared to all men players."

WALKER WILL FIGHT FOUR BOUTS ON TOUR

New York, Feb. 8 (A.P.)—Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, accompanied by his manager, Jack Kearns, left today for a tour of the West, during which he will engage in four title matches—at Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

"The champion will fight himself into condition for the biggest year he has ever had," Kearns said. "When he returns he will be ready for matches with Tommy Milligan, Harry Greb and Benny Leonard, who, I think, will return to the ring this year."

Write it on the ice!

THIS talk about you "never could smoke a pipe" . . . write it on the ice! Sure, you can smoke a pipe. It's just a matter of picking the packing. Dig up that old jimmy-pipe and start fresh . . . with Prince Albert. That's the prescription that has brought pipe-joy to millions.

P. A. is so genuinely friendly. It hits your smoke-spot in deep center right off the bat. Doesn't bite your tongue or parch your throat, because the Prince Albert process said "nix on the rough stuff" right at the beginning. Just cool contentment in every puff—the urge to load up and light up again and again.

Prince Albert is great tobacco. You recognize that the instant you pull that cool, comforting smoke into your system. So fragrant that jimmy-pipes are more than welcome in "the best room in the house." So full-bodied and satisfying that you want to hit it up from morning to midnight. And do!

Don't put off till tomorrow what you can smoke today. Get a tidy red tin of P. A. now. Snap back the hinged lid and release that wonderful fragrance. Tamp a load into the bowl of your jimmy-pipe and light up. Now you've got it . . . that taste. Say—isn't that the goods, now?

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Babe Has Been Jinx for Colored Boxers and Will Provide Tough Scrap

Tonight's Fight Program

1—Jimmy McGonigal, Weymouth vs. Young Baldi, North End, four rounds.

2—Sam "Shadow" Bowden, Back Bay, vs. John L. Kelly, South End, four rounds.

3—Young Al Delmont, Jr., North End, vs. Johnny Kid Adams, Providence, six rounds.

4—Nick Quagrelli vs. Henry Ford, West End, six rounds.

5—Joe Hartnett, Halifax, N. S., vs. Charlie Donovan, South Boston, six rounds.

6—Babe Herman, California, vs. Chick Suggs, New Bedford, New England bantamweight and featherweight champion, main bout, ten rounds.

By JACK CONWAY.

GATHER around, men of high finance and common every day boxing fans, and take counsel from the spectacular climb to fame of Chick Suggs, New Bedford featherweight, who clashes with Babe Herman of California in the feature ten round bout at the Commercial A. C.'s show at Mechanics Building tonight.

Jack Conway

Five years ago Joe Burke, Whaling City promoter, paid the spectacular Suggs, then an unknown, $7.50 for battling a sizzling eight round semi fina.

"I never bothered to find out before the tussle what Suggs would get for his end of the purse explained Manager David Luminasky to the writer "I figured Chick would draw down $100 to $200. I almost fainted when the promoter only gave us $7.50. You can imagine Suggs and myself felt a little bit better than we did on that occasion when I signed the New Bedford youth to box Herman for a $4,000 guarantee with a liberal percentage privilege on the side."

Suggs is one of the big money makers of the ring. He boxes on an average of twice every three weeks and is always paid top money for his services.

The New Bedford youth, like Tiger Flowers, has proved that a great colored boxer can make as much money as a leading white mitt wielder. The promoters will always pay liberally to show the class per formers.

SUGGS is the most sensational midget colored boxer since the days of the immortal George Dixon The Whaling City youth can make the bantamweight limit of 118 pounds and was recently named by Tex Rickard as the world's leading bantamweight, being placed ahead of Champion Phil Rosenberg

Although a legitimate bantam weight, Suggs has never hesitated to tackle featherweights. In his last appearance in this city, he walloped Joey Celmers, New York bantamweight. Prior to that engagement, he disposed of Red Chapman in a local ring

Like Dixon, Suggs is a brilliant boxer and is blessed with wonderful speed. He would make an ideal running mate for a bolt of lightning

SUGGS will tackle a two-fisted fighting man tonight in the person of Herman. Boston fans got a glimpse of Herman in his recent encounter here with Honeyboy Finnegan. The Honeyboy was awarded a close decision. At one point in the tussle it looked as though Finnegan was going to fade out of the picture. A Herman right hand thrust to the chin had placed Honeyboy in a horizontal position on the canvas. Only real fighting courage and smart ring generalship enabled Finnegan to carry on

Jimmy Kelley, who is here as the business end of the Herman outfit, calls our attention to the fact that Babe has been sure poison to colored boxers. The lad from the sunny slopes of California has never been busted in a skirmish with a colored boxer. If he can get by Suggs tonight he will have reason to boast of his combattive qualities

HERMAN is eager to rout Suggs, as he is also signed to mingle with Red Chapman at a Commercial A. C. show on February 26

As the Suggs-Herman bout is the first flatic offering since Kid Kaplan socked Billy Murphy around, it is expected that a large crowd will be on hand to witness the festivities.

New Bedford, Fall River and Newport, R. I., will all send large delegations of fans into our midst tonight. And they'll root for a Suggs victory.

SPORT EDITORIAL

CHICK SUGGS, great colored boxer from New Bedford, intends to make certain that it is not necessary for his friends to stage a benefit for him when his days of usefulness in the ring are at an end. Although his earnings for 1925 were more than $50,000, the "New George Dixon" and his family live modestly on less than $1,500 a year.

Suggs lives in his own home and has a drawing account of $25 a week on David Luminasky, his manager. The balance of Suggs' earnings are invested by Luminasky in New Bedford second mortgages at a yield of 9 per cent. a year.

Suggs was paid $4,500 when he defeated Red Chapman, which was the largest purse he had ever received up to that time. After the contest he asked his manager for $10. The little colored wonder is much unlike Jack Johnson, Sam Langford and other famous ring men of his race, who usually went on an expensive party following a ring triumph.

The New Bedford boxer realizes that the gang that is always willing to help a ring leader to spend his money is always the first to quit him when he hits the toboggan and goes broke.—JACK CONWAY.

FLATLEY CALLS 'EM

Milligan and Rubbers No Snow Fighter Helen's Chances Odds All Wrong

—By NICK FLATLEY—

THE Suffolk Club should show more judgment in signing up Scotch fighters. The non-appearance of Tommy Milligan, who grew up in the land of the heather, was undoubtedly due to the fact that he hadn't been provided with overshoes

The club always has rubbers around for the visiting fighters, but Tommy can hardly be blamed for wanting more than that in the young blizzard of recent date.

Nick Flatley.

We met sundry and various citizens who had managed to reach Boston Friday from far away points like Nashua and Pittsfield, and even New York. Clifton isn't so far buried in the wilderness but that Tommy might have made Boston had his soul been filled with the desire to battle

YOUNG MISTER MILLIGAN was heralded as the next champion in his class and all that sort of thing. He was supposed to be in line for a shot at Mickey Walker's title. That crown isn't subject to snowstorms, deluges, tornadoes nor monsoons Young Mister Milligan would seem to be a fair weather fighter.

He has undoubtedly won the championship of Clifton, and probably hates to run any chances of tossing it off. His opponent that was to have been, Pete Latzo, is a tough bird, as they say in the ring, but he never had done anything to frighten off a real champ pretender.

The Suffolk Club might point out to battlers the advantage of skis and snowshoes as training implements Then in case of storm, the young man could scamper in over the drifts, and the fans wouldn't be given the runaround.

NOW that Helen Wills and Suzanne are to meet on the courts, the European climate should settle back to normal. Probably many of the late storms on the Atlantic and the seaboard have been caused by the superfluity of wind that is blowing around France.

Miss Wills, at recent quotations, will be on the short end of some 7 to 1 betting. We would like to have about a million dollars on the American chances of glory at those odds.

M'CARTHY AND SHARKEY TO FIGHT FEB. 19

F. McCarthy, Roxbury heavyweight, persistent claimant to the New England heavyweight championship, and Jack Sharkey of Brighton, recognized titleholder, are to meet in the long mooted question of superiority in the ring of the Suffok A. A. at Mechanic B. ding, Friday evening, February 19

Crew Meeting to Be Held Tonight

By TED LYNCH.

Five hundred Harvard undergraduates are expected to attend the first meetings of the Harvard crews, both varsity and freshman. The initial gatherings are scheduled for 7 o'clock this evening at the Sm[illegible] Hall gymnasium.

Although the crew meeting will not display the pomp and show of the expected baseball meeting, the oarsmen will have the best gathering in years. John Richardson, chairman of the Harvard rowing committee, will be the leading speaker and will be followed by Head Coach Ed Stevens, Captain Robert Winthrop and Manager W. C. Ladd.

Training was broken last December but the rule of athletic discipline will resume full sway at 5 o'clock this evening. Now that the annual and dreaded mid-year examinations have been taken, the interest in the coming sport should be tremendous

WILLIAMS BASEBALL MEN TO BE CALLED IN MARCH

Williamstown, Feb. 8 "Hennie" Bower, Williams' new baseball coach, will be busy with the hockey team, which he also coaches, until late this month, and the diamond squad will not be called out for indoor drills in the cage until early in March, which time is a trifle later than usual. It is planned to have the battery men report during the first week of next month, while the remainder of the squad will follow shortly It will be Bower's first year as baseball coach at Williams

LUNDEN AND MALCEWICZ ARE AFTER BELT

By RINGSIDE.

Nothing will stop Aex Lunden in his bout with Joe Malcewicz of Utica, N. Y., at the Grand Opera House tonight.

Malcewicz has been consistently challenging Peddubny, Bacher and Ed Strangler Lewis without any result. This sort of playing brought Paul Bowser out with a handsome belt valued at $1,000 and a side purse of $1,500, which will go to the winner of tonight's show

Others to appear on the bill will be Stanley Stasiak, who meets Big Bill Beth, the Northwestern lumberjack, Charley Donnell, Norwood police officer champ, will meet a real tough customer in Ned McGuire, the fighting Irish strong boy.

Moe and Joe

Moe was in his stride again Saturday. He shoved 'em his groceries on A. P. Canale to top the third splash, and cop he did, paying the neat price of $6.80.

TODAY

The abbreviated plunger is smacking his washers on Francesco Victoria in the first. A wise old handicapper is staking his rep on it. All aboard for the gravy train. BOOP! BOOP! B. R. to date $2,082.67.

GIRLS COMPETE IN TRACK GAMES TONIGHT

The finest of New England's fair track athletes will compete tonight in the Curtis Hall Municipal Gymnasium, Jamaica Plain. The meet is to be held under the auspices of the committee on womens' athletics of the New England A. A. A. U. in conjunction with the Park Department of the city of Boston, and the first gun will be fired at 8 o'clock.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER R. HORTON

It has long been pointed out to golfers that at the moment of impact the body should be largely in the same position, with relation to the ball it assumed in the stance and address. How persistently this necessity of the forward swing is violated few average golfers understand. I know there will be arguments that pictures of par golfers never show the body in the same position, that the right toe is off the ground, the hips are more forward, right shoulder down lower, etc. True enough, but one thing you will invariably observe in the action of expert players is that at the moment of impact the shoulders are on a line parallel with the direction line. That is, they are square to the ball, as shown in the sketch.

Here's new dental way to Gums like Coral

Also lightens cloudy teeth remarkably

Accept, please, full 10-day tube of this scientifically-proved, film-removing dentifrice, urged by world's dental authorities. Note the great difference in your teeth and gums.

is why your teeth look "off color," dingy and unattractive

It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It lays your gums open to bacterial attack. Germs by the millions breed in it. And they, with tartar, are a chief cause of pyorrhea and decay.

Old ways won't clear it off

Ordinary dentifrices and cleansing won't get film off successfully. Feel for it now with your tongue. Note how your present cleansing method is failing in its duty.

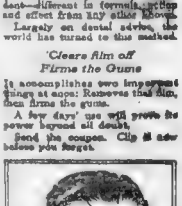
Now new methods are being used. A dentifrice called Pepsodent—different in formula, action and effect from any other known. Largely on dental advice, the world has turned to this method.

'Clears film off Firms the Gums

It accomplishes two important things at once: Removes that film, then firms the gums.

A few days' use will prove its power beyond all doubt.

Send the coupon. Clip it now before you forget.



GLORIOUSLY clear teeth, gums like coral to contrast them! Add their attractiveness to your smile. Do this for social reasons, for business reasons.

Modern dental science now proves teeth seldom are naturally "off color"—simply clouded with a film coat that ordinary dentifrices do not clear off successfully. Clouded teeth now are given sparkling whiteness, and one's whole appearance thus often changed.

Accept, please, a full 10-day tube of this new way. A few scores of motion pictures' noted stars use to whiten teeth before going on a scene. A way leading dentists of the world now are widely urging.

Just a film dulling them and inviting gum troubles

Dental science now traces scores of tooth and gum troubles to a germ-laden film that forms on teeth.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel it—a slippery, viscous coating.

That film absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. And that is why your teeth look dingy and unattractive. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It lays your gums open to bacterial attack. Germs by the millions breed in it. And they, with tartar, are a chief cause of pyorrhea and decay.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Physicians Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards found the formula of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets while treating patients in his private practice for constipation and associated disorders. Calomel was the drug commonly prescribed for these troubles in the early days of his practice. Dr. Edwards sought for a substitute that would be gentler in its action, yet more certain and dependable. He discovered it in a combination of vegetable laxatives and mild tonics. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Flossie Wants Money

"Darling Mary Rose," it read. "You still have $20 of mine. Remember that I asked you to get [illegible] is the world's worse tightwad and the way he freezes on to money [illegible] If I had known he was like this he would have had to [illegible] marry him, believe me, baby! With love, Flossie.

"P. S. Send the money special delivery. [illegible] terribly, and I have paid down [illegible] last dollar to hold it. F. M. J."

The letter had been mailed from Wakefield and Mary Rose groaned aloud as she read it [illegible]

[illegible]

"I simply will not go out with a man unless he has a car," she had told him long ago. "There are too many men with machines who are dying to go around with me." And so Sam had bought the Wheezer.

Mary's Lament

Mary Rose slipped a sheet of paper into her typewriter and began to tap off a letter to her wilful young sister.

"Dearest Flossie," she wrote. "I'm sending the money for the hat, but don't you think you're making a mistake by quarreling about it with Sam? I do. The way to make a man give you things is not by razzing him, surely—"

She got that far and stopped, her hands poised in the air above the [illegible] Then suddenly [illegible] the letter from the typewriter and deliberately tore it into little bits.

"Who am I to advise Flossie what

[illegible]

"I hear that Flossie's married Sam Jessup," he said, looking at her with his gray, unsmiling eyes.

Mary Rose only nodded. There was a tight drawn feeling in her throat and she knew that if she tried to speak, she would start to cry.

"I suppose you'll be the next one to get married," he went on. "You and your friend, the pill maker?"

Mary Rose silently shook her head. Her lips trembled, and her eyes slowly filled with tears.

But John Manners was on his way to the door by that time, and he didn't see them.

One of the [illegible] things about [illegible] shows up the things we don't want to see and [illegible] the things that we want to see.

The little brown house was not [illegible] these days, either.

Mrs. Middleton cried most of the time and her eyes were always red and swollen. She spent whole days up in the attic looking up linens and [illegible] Flossie for her new home.

Tom on Deck

Goodness knows she'll never have anything if I don't give it to her," she said to Aunt Henny Blair who was helping her. Aunt Henny was glad of this chance to have a peek at the Middleton attic. She loved to see what people had, so that she could go out and tell the neighbors about it afterward.

"Maybe the young people will come back here and settle down with you," Aunt Henny suggested wickedly one night, when the three women were sitting together in the Middleton kitchen. She knew that the last thing in the world that Mrs. Middleton would do would be to receive Sam Jessup into the [illegible] arms.

"And maybe they won't too," she answered now, with more spirit than Mary Rose had seen her show for days. "I've always said that there's no house in the world big enough to hold two families! And besides that I couldn't stand that cigaret smoking Sam around, smelling up the place. No, Mary Rose and I will live here alone till we die, I guess."

"I don't think!" exploded a cheerful tenor voice from the doorway. Tom Fitzroy stood there with his arms full of bumpy looking packages.

"More gifts for the newlyweds," he explained to Mary Rose, as he began to untie them.

An electric grill and a bread mixer. "That's for Flossie Middleton. [illegible] bread mixer!" Mary Rose laughed.

"Well, I mean to encourage the kid," Tom told her. "Well give her all the household utensils that grow in the hardware stores and turn her into a [illegible] She may [illegible] Mrs. Rose. Who [illegible]?"

[illegible]

"I certainly get an awful kick out of buying these things," he told Mary Rose seriously a little later when the two of them were in the kitchen making sandwiches and coffee, for Tom was hungry as usual.

"You do?" Mary Rose asked innocently. "Why?" She knew perfectly without his telling her.

Coming Home

"Because it makes me think of the time when I'll be buying 'em for you," he said, just as she had known he would. "Brooms and vacuum cleaners and dish mops and—and cradles and things—"

He would have kissed her but the door bell rang just then and she pulled herself away from him and went to answer it.

A boy stood there with a special delivery letter from Flossie.

Mrs. Middleton read it aloud:

"Dear Mother:

"Kill the fatted calf and get ready the wreaths, for the honeymooners will be home tomorrow. We're on each other's nerves so terribly that if we don't see somebody besides ourselves there'll be a divorce in the family before the wedding announcements are out. Love from Flossie."

She had not quite finished reading it before Aunt Henny was on her fat feet.

"Well, well, so they're coming home!" she observed, smiling slyly, as she pulled her shawl around her shoulders and started for the front door. "And I must be going! See you all tomorrow. Good night."

Tom watched her disappear with a twinkle in his nice blue eyes.

"Moving picture of Aunt Henny beating it to tell the street!" he commented. Then he turned to Mrs. Middleton.

"Let me give the kids their wedding breakfast," he said to her, and as she started to shake her head he went on:

"Why not? You know I'm going to be one of the family in a few days, don't you. Mary Rose is going to marry me next week!"

Tom Fitzroy announces his intention of marrying Mary Rose; does he? See tomorrow's installment.

THE [illegible]

[illegible]

True to type, the [illegible] little rooster preens his feathers and struts in state straight across the front of the crown of one of the smartest horsehair straw hats. In natural coloring, this little feather cock is placed flat against the hat and forms a stunning and original trimming.

Full dress and fully dressed are seldom the same in feminine evening styles. The latest London rage seems to place a premium on modesty, for over one's decolette gown it is extremely smart to wear a taffeta, velvet lined jacket, the facsimile of a man's tuxedo. Some of these are three-quarter length, but the jauntiest models are just to the hip.

Using his trunks has often been done when a woman fancied a husband's or brother's baggage, but never before have masculine bathing trunks been adopted by bathers of the fair, and unfair, sex. Striped flannel trunks, white zephyr shirt and canvas belt now find their places in the bathing wardrobe of many an ultra modern mermaid.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic Coughs and Persistent Colds Lead to Serious Trouble. You Can Stop Them Now With Creomulsion, an Emulsified Creosote That Is Pleasant to Take.

Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga.

CREOMULSION

Best Way to Loosen Stubborn Cough

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, or bronchial asthma.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and tastes good.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

"You are taking [illegible] chances coming across the border with contraband loaded into the rear deck of the machine," he said. "The revenue men will get you easy unless you fool them by rigging a car with a false bottom. Your fancy wines and liquors [illegible] to take them unnecessar[illegible]."

I thanked [illegible] the problem on [illegible] from Boston. The Boston [illegible] told me that there were garage men and second hand dealers who made a specialty of rigging cars for bootleggers.

I talked [illegible] and he agreed with the Boston [illegible]er. Tony told me where I could locate a fellow who would [illegible] a false bottom on the car.

But I [illegible] time to do [illegible] I wanted to take [illegible] what I co[illegible] entirely on my own resources. I didn't feel proud of the success of my first trip to the border because I considered Tony, as guide, was responsible f[illegible] asked T[illegible] even if he had been [illegible] because I realized it was [illegible] to act independently.

Hilda Warned

I wanted to test my nerve and resourcefulness. It would have to come some time and the earlier the better.

"You are one big idiot to attempt the border alone," announced Tony. "They'll get you on your first attempt and then where will you be."

Murdock [illegible] takes the [illegible] nerve to run [illegible] line," he [illegible] a woman's [illegible] has got the makeu[illegible] don't do [illegible]

That was a challenge. "I'll show you what a woman can do or at least what this woman can do. I'm going to run the border alone and I won't get caught either."

A Woman's Will

Of course, I knew both these men were friendly and that the advice was given in good part and was their very best judgment. But I was on my mettle and determined.

And so I set out ALONE in the [illegible] up road!

I got an early start as I wanted to reach the line before dark. I had carefully tucked away enough money to buy a supply of champagne and Scotch.

At the revenue office near the line I was held up but, of course, carrying no liquor, I had no fear.

After asking me my name and date of birth, they asked my destination.

Patrol Suspicious

"Why are you going into Canada?" asked the border patrolman.

"I'm going to see a sick relative in P——," I said.

They seemed very suspicious and [illegible] my car examined it.

The patrolman eyed me keenly. "We have a report that a woman in a car like this and described somewhat as you look has been running in liquor. Are you the woman?"

My knees shook but I remembered my boast to Tony and Murdock. I looked the officer right in the eye and said "No" emphatically.

He then gave me a certificate good for a month's stay and I drove on.

On the Canadian side I was quickly passed. I drove slowly in order not to reach Pop's supply house before dusk.

Pop Astonished

Pop was astonished when he saw that I was alone.

"Are you crazy?" he asked. "You are on a dangerous job which needs [illegible] to help you get across."

"I sure am not afraid," I almost flared at him, "I am going through alone or bust."

"Well, all right," he said, "I told you. What do you want?"

"I am going to load up with champagne," I said. "Give me Pol Roger, Cliquot and Pommery. If you have any genuine Haig & Haig I'll top off with that."

"[illegible]" said Pop as he [illegible] the car.

It was [illegible] in the back of the [illegible] It was covered with blankets [illegible] for the purpose. I was [illegible] a room and rested. I kept apart [illegible] but Pop.

Then I sought the Prowler. Pop found him for me. I asked [illegible] the road was. He told me he would let me know later. My plan was to start at about the same time Tony and I did. I wanted to slip through the patrol. I depended on the Prowler's tip. We had paid him before and I told him I would again.

I returned to my room and rested, but did not sleep.

My mind was too active. I was keyed up, but not afraid.

There was a knock on the door. The thin little man with the grey hair told me the Prowler was waiting.

I almost bounded down the creaky stairs.

He beckoned to follow him outside. He looked terribly solemn.

In tomorrow's chapter of her amazing life story, Hilda Stone will describe her thrilling pursuit by the armed patrol.

DAILY SHORT STORY

SISTERS—ALL

By Mabel McKee

MALCOLM ALGREN was on his way to his attorney's office to tell him to sub-lease his apartment, to look after some of his affairs as well as the big firm [illegible] usually took care—and most important of all—to make a [illegible] with the girl [illegible] tried to [illegible]

[illegible]

The words sang themselves over [illegible] along the street. He had used them to Helen, his sister, who in her frank, [illegible] to him how much the [illegible] She had introduced them several months before [illegible] Malcolm had seen Orchid on the street with Helen—a dusky-eyed [illegible] from her home town. She was new to [illegible] to be [illegible] a great [illegible].

That had been [illegible] almost a year ago.

Now she had forgotten her great ambition and just worshipped at Malcolm's [illegible]. Not heeding at all wise little Helen's warning. "He's a darling of a perpetual bachelor Orchid. I mean by that the kind who never intend to get married but always have a good time. So don't fall in love with him. Don't!"

Not all of Helen's warnings had kept Orchid from falling. What blissful days she and Malcolm had [illegible] until he realized that he was [illegible] danger [illegible] in love himself [illegible] decided to go on one of his [illegible] trips to Africa again. [illegible] trips [illegible] Malcolm's [illegible] from a [illegible] and sent him away [illegible] to the wilds.

A short telephone message told Orchid he was leaving. An hour [illegible] Helen had found [illegible] across the couch in the little one-roomed studio to which she had brought her vaulting ambition, her courageous little heart and her two talented little hands a few months before. Her studio in which Malcolm had made love in his mad, impulsive but gay, rollicking way—the creed of which was, "Today's love—tomorrow forgotten will be free."

Frightened Helen

Her wild sobbing had frightened Helen. Like a flash of terror she had burst in on Malcolm at his apartment, packing his trunk.

"You can't go," she cried. "You can't. Her heart is broken. She'll grieve herself to death. You've taken all her desire for a career and she has nothing left to cling to but you—nothing, I say."

Malcolm had been extremely bored. Frankly and brutally, too, he had told Helen that. Had told her other things. Orchid was a darling he agreed. Yes, he had loved her in a fashion, he admitted. The fashion of a man of many affairs, the fashion of a man who did not want marriage, who regarded it as a thing of letters with no re[illegible]

"I'm going on a big hunt," he [illegible] easily. "When she finds out that I am really gone, she'll be all right. She'll paint better for having known me. Sorry you think I should marry her, Helen. She's a darling, but I'm not a marrying man."

Feel Safer

He tried to forget all that while he was at his lawyers; tried to forget it as he hurried down another street to the little apartment his sister shared with another newspaper writer. Malcolm frowned when he thought of his sister—a capable, beautiful woman of twenty-five. How gaily she would laugh if he mentioned having to leave her! Her laughter would be more than gay if he asked her why she didn't give up this quest for success and marry her boyhood sweetheart who was begging her every day to do that.

"You're not a marrying man, Malcolm," she had laughed to him. "And neither am I a marrying woman."

"Heavens" he had declared when she said that. "I wish you were. I'd feel you were safer."

Anne had the furniture of her cozy, little, living room piled high with dress materials and with fashion plates when he entered it. She rushed to him and threw her arms around his neck. "Get ready for a wedding," she cried. "Fred and I are going to be married next week. He's been called west and—and—"

After a little while she told him how the amazing change in her had happened. True Kirkham, one of her friends who had been an illustrator before she married, had telephoned her to come and see her right away. Like a princess in a wonderful tower, she had taken Malcolm's sister to her most secret room and let her have a peep at her treasure chest there.

They had held hands over the tiny, nainsook dresses, and kissed over the miniature kimonos and baby shoes; had knelt reverently at the businet, which she was trimming with the pinkest of brocaded silk.

"Oh, isn't it wonderful!" True had whispered. "Wonderful to even think of being a mother. Nothing else seems worth while when I think of that."

Anne had stopped at the corner drug store on her way home to telephone Fred; had told him to stay east a week longer for she was going west with him. "I must have the great happiness True is experiencing," she whispered to her brother. "When it comes to motherhood, we're sisters all—we women. Yes, we are Malcolm."

The wedding was the reason Malcolm postponed leaving on his boat for a week. At the club that evening he explained the reason to his bachelor friends. Their congratulations pleased him. He himself even agreed that the happiest women were those in homes.

Not until the next morning did he think of Orchid, who too had loved a man enough to want to make him a home exactly as his sister Anne did. Just a bit of sympathy started in his heart then. What was it Anne had said to him about "Sisters-All" wanting homes and motherhood?

Remembered Orchid

Oh, yes, he remembered it now.

"Guess I'll run over and see the youngster a while," he mused to himself. "May be able to get her to thinking of her career again. Anne makes me soft hearted, I guess. Anyway I'm going."

An hour later he rang the bell at Orchid's studio—rang and rang it again. No answer came from the little room where Orchid so often had told him she was wonderfully [illegible] a dead silence! A [illegible] suddenly filled Malcolm's heart with a fear. Could Orchid have taken her life? Did she care that much?

Jaunty Helen came swinging down [illegible] while he waited. "Look[illegible] for Orchid?" she greeted him. "Well, she's gone back to her home town; left last night. Funny thing caused her to leave. We went over to see True Kirkham and she was showing a lot of baby things she's making. Orchid got all sentimental and said she didn't want a career or anything but home and her boyhood sweetheart, who fought her coming to the city. She went home last night.

Funny creatures—some women are."

A shade passed over Malcolm's face; a shadow came in his heart, deeper than the shadows of the forests of South Africa. Regret over what he had missed made his heart ache.

"Not funny, Helen," he said softly, "But awfully, awfully wise, those people who want homes and children. It's you and me and the rest of us who stifle those longings who are queer. Yes, that's true."

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEY

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys with Jad Salts

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize acids so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

For Head Colds

THERE are many ways to treat a cold in the head, but only one DIRECT way, and that is with vapors that can be inhaled.

The easiest and most satisfying way to get these vapors is to snuff a little Vicks VapoRub well up the nose, or melt a little in a spoon or tin cup and inhale.

The medicated vapors reach immediately into every corner of the air passages, soothing and healing with every breath.

For other forms of cold troubles just rub Vicks over the throat and chest at bedtime. It is then the body heat which releases these vapors.

THE FOXY GRANDPA DAILY BEDTIME STORY

By Foxy Grandpa

"WE have to be at school at twenty minutes of nine instead of nine," said Bobby with disgust, throwing down his books.

"That's not so bad," I said.

"It means I have to get up twenty minutes earlier," he sighed.

"Perhaps you had better go to bed twenty minutes earlier." I chuckled and winked at Bunny, because you know how boys hate to go to bed at night.

"Oh," Bobby bravely declared, "I won't miss those twenty minutes sleep."

"Suppose you had to go to school at the time Shakespeare did?" I reasonably asked the boy.

"Did he go to school early?" asked Bobby. "We're just reading Lamb's Tales from Shakespeare. I'd like to know what time a smart man like that went to school."

"In Summer, William Shakespeare went to school at 6 o'clock in the morning. And in Winter at daybreak."

"Whew!" exclaimed Bobby.

"Now you don't think you're so badly treated, Bobby," I said.

"I guess we are lucky today," he admitted.

"I should say so," I agreed.

"I wonder what he studied?" asked Bobby.

"Latin was the great thing then —with very little boys your age, too," I said.

"Why, we don't have Latin until we get in high school," exclaimed Bobby. "That must have been very hard then."

"It was," I said, "and suppose you had to write like visiting cards are engraved today—which looks like printing with curlycues and strange letters."

"Did Shakespeare go to college, Foxy Grandpa?" asked Bobby, now really interested in the great man's education.

"No," I answered. "Shakespeare only went to school for six years, and when he was fourteen he went up to London to make his fortune."

"Why did he have to stop school? I wonder," mused Bobby.

"Because, although his father was not a rich man, he was not poor. At one time he was mayor of his town, but when his son William was fourteen he lost his money and the boy had to go to work."

"I guess boys are pretty lucky when they can finish school, aren't they, Foxy Grandpa?" he remarked with great seriousness.

"Yes," I laughed, "and when they don't have to be there at 6 o'clock in the morning."

Don't Fuss With Mustard Plasters!

Musterole Works Without the Blister—Easier, Quicker

Don't mix a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole.

Musterole is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, in the form of a white ointment. It takes the place of mustard plasters, and will not blister.

Musterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest. (It may prevent pneumonia).

N. E. FARMS GO FOR SUMMER RESIDENCES

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Wellington Wells

Only 8.9 per cent. of New England farms, or 11,602, are rented, leaving 144,962 in the hands of their owners. The Pine Tree State has the lowest average of rented farms of any in the Union with 4.4 per cent. run by tenants, according to latest figures. For many years New England farms have been gradually acquired by Summer residents, which has tended to remove them from the bona fide farming class.

One of the largest "Summer farms" in New England, around a square mile in acreage, consists of the consolidation of two farms at Chesham, N. H. It is owned by Wellington Wells, widely known as president of the Massachusetts State Senate, and attorney.

Recently we referred to the prospects for a bill to aid the New Haven, St. Paul and other rails. Now this bill, designed to reduce interest charges and fund debts of railroads to government, has been introduced in both branches of Congress. Representative Schuyler Merritt of Stamford, Ct., and Senator Gooding of Idaho, author of Gooding bill, are sponsoring the new legislation, which is said to have originated with Association of Railroad Owners. Extension of time of payment, bill provides, shall not be for more than 40 years, nor present 6 per cent. rate of interest cut to less than 4 per cent. Reduction of 2 per cent., however, would mean saving of $1,800,000 for New Haven Railroad which owes government $91,000,000 and would mean saving of $1,100,000 to St. Paul, in receivership.

Consolidation of railroads into as limited a number of systems as possible was urged before Senate interstate commerce committee by Nathan L. Amster of Boston. Several years ago he proposed a plan for consolidation of railroads into one system. Compulsory consolidation would be a good thing if it could be accomplished, Mr. Amster told the committee.

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Business is going well. Nearly all developments since January 15 have been favorable.

* * *

Consider these facts:

Bank clearings last month broke all January records.

Postal receipts show an increase of fully 6 per cent. over a year ago.

Automobile production last month was slightly ahead of December, one-third larger than in January of last year and higher than in the active January of 1924.

The latest report from Detroit shows an increase of 2,240 workers employed, making the total more than 50,000 above a year ago.

Pig iron production showed a modest increase over the December total. It was a shade below the January, 1925, total but higher than the corresponding month in 1924.

Notwithstanding the grippling coal strike, the latest car loadings show only a nominal decrease. Miscellaneous freight carried is running above one year ago and two years ago.

Panama Canal traffic during January broke all previous records, with the exception of that for the last month of 1923.

The shipping industry is at last enjoying at least feeble signs of recovery.

Sterling exchange last week reached the highest point since 1914.

The latest building figures reveal continued extraordinary activities.

Keener demand for copper has carried prices appreciably above 14 cents a pound.

Wheat has continued to command around $1.75. Cotton closed the week slightly above $2 a pound in New York.

The cost of living is slowly declining. Wholesale commodity prices fell about 2 per cent.

The most notable price reduction announced last week was in automobile tires.

GRANTS PERMIT FOR ST. JAMES GARAGE

The Street Commission today granted a permit to the St. James Building Corporation for the erection of one of the largest garages in the city on a site in the rear of the Paine Furniture Building in the Park square district.

The granting of the permit follows a bitter dispute. William J. McDonald, one of the pioneers in the development of the Park square district and staunch opponent of the St. James Building Corporation's garage plan, said that the fight had only just begun.

"We will fight this permit to the last ditch and several ditches beyond," he said.

TO APPEAL TO NEAL.

He indicated that the first step would be to appeal the case to State Fire Marshal Neal.

The fight began in December under former Mayor Curley's administration. At that time the petition for the garage was presented under the name of the Park Square Garage, Inc. It was presented by John A. Sullivan, former corporation counsel. The street commissioners, however, rejected the petition.

Shortly after Mayor Nichols took office, the same promoters brought in a new petition under the name of the St. James Building Corporation with Alexander Whiteside as their counsel.

APPROVED BY MAYOR.

At City Hall it was assumed that the decision of the street commissioners would stand so far as the city's exercise of authority is concerned.

The Mayor announced several days ago that he would adopt a hands-off policy, inasmuch as two groups with whom he was very friendly are at swords points. The Mayor at that time also indicated that whatever decision the Street Commissioners reached would be acceptable to him.

The street commissioners also granted a secondary petition allowing extension of the original site.

POLICE HALT MARCH OF MILL STRIKERS

Clifton, N. J., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Seven hundred and fifty woolen mill strikers of Passaic and Garfield, marching to picket the Forstmann and Huffmann mill at Garfield today, were stopped at the city line by Chief of Police William J. Coughlan and 25 patrolmen. They were told they could not march through Clifton without a permit. Some hesitancy on the part of the strikers caused the police to draw their clubs, when the marchers retired to Passaic. According to the police, there are 7200 mill workers on strike for a return to former wage scales and discontinuance of alleged discrimination against union workers. Five mills are affected.

BE A BOSTON BOOSTER

OLD IRONSIDES EMBODIES LUCK OF NAVY

talk darkly of luck. If the ship's bell falls from place on an unlucky ship, some one is going to die.

SAILOR SUPERSTITIONS.

After a long period of windless weather the sailors used to look suspiciously at half-breeds in the crew and mutter that there must be a "spotted nigger" on board, one whose skin was alternately white and brown instead of a uniform saddle color or high yellow. Once the bad luck stories get started disaster could be looked for from a general slackening through the ship.

I have been on two ships where these particularly superstitions were believed in.

The ships were happy and successful enough and no disaster occurred but the old, eerie feeling, found root again even in the modern hard boiled brains of sailormen.

On one occasion the ship's bell of the destroyer Jarvis fell from its position on front of the chart house onto the forecastle as the Jarvis was coming home from France in January of 1919.

It was saved before it fell overboard but not before it had clanged out a few such unusual sounds that the whole ship's company seemed to be aware of it simultaneously.

SINISTER OMEN.

In no time the story was going around that this meant death or disaster. Where it started no one knew, but in the next hour or two several men asked me if this superstition had any known incidents to support it. I heard it then for the second time and told the men that it was an old superstition of sailing ship days.

About six hours later we picked up a radio in mid-ocean reporting the death of ex-President Roosevelt. Thus a superstition is given another lease of life.

(Another installment of "The Luck of Old Ironsides" will be printed in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.)

BENNETT WILL GO ON TRIAL TOMORROW

James H. Bennett of Brighton, one of the five alleged Waltham carbarn thugs who was freed on indictments charging him with being an accessory before and after the fact of the murder of Watchman James Furneau, will go on trial in Middlesex Criminal Court tomorrow morning on new indictments charging him with being an accessory to robbery.

Decision to try Bennett on these charges was reached after a conference between District Attorney Arthur K. Reading and Attorney Edward Tierney of Lowell, Bennett's counsel.

MAY BAR TRUCKS ON BEACON STREET

On petition of Alexander Whiteside, former corporation counsel, the Board of Street Commissioners today agreed to reopen the case of the residents of Beacon street, who have long been striving to have motor trucks barred from that thoroughfare between Massachusetts avenue and Charles street.

During the administration of Mayor Curley the Beacon Street Associates waged a losing battle to have the trucks excluded, but today the Street Commissioners agreed to grant a public hearing on the matter at 11 a. m. February 18. At the same time they will hear a similar petition from residents of Marlborough street.

Mrs. Walkins Buried

The funeral of Mrs. Katherine M. Walkins, wife of Police Captain James Walkins of the Mattapan station, was held today with a solemn high mass of requiem in the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, Jamaica Plain. Monsignor Arthur P. Connolly celebrated the mass. Burial was in Holyhood Cemetery.

A GOOD, CLEAN NEWSPAPER

BOSTON SUNDAY EVENING AMERICAN

BE A BOSTON BOOSTER

Perhaps George Did Swear

But, Anyhow, He Beat the English

There is excitement throughout the country because a literary gentleman says George Washington swore, drank alcoholic drinks, and even made such drinks on his premises.

"Horrors, dreadful, shameful, take it back," that is the cry.

Virtuous ladies and sisterhoods even suggest that they will make somebody else "first in war, first in peace, first in the hearts of his countrymen."

But the excitement is uncalled for. Men live according to the habits of their time. Everybody "swore" in Washington's day. Not so long ago it could be written quite naturally, "I knew she was a lady by her oaths."

Everybody drank alcoholic drinks in George Washington's day. Thomas Jefferson imported his wines from France and recommended an English brewer to the kind attention of the Legislature, saying that wine and beer would do more for temperance than anything else. He hated whiskey—wise Jefferson.

There is no reason to suggest tearing up the Declaration of Independence because Jefferson, who wrote it, drank wine. George Washington was not hired to drink ice water or sing psalms.

The people hired Washington to beat the English. He did it, to a finish, and that is enough. When the W. C. T. U. shivers at the thought of Washington brewing beer, you wonder if the good ladies have never read the New Testament account of the wine-making at the wedding. If the founder of Christianity could properly create wine, miraculously, to cheer up a wedding, Washington might well brew beer in the old-fashioned way.

Anyhow, alcohol was no sin in his day. The sin then would have been to offer your guest ice water or "pop."

Bridle the Phone Monopoly

Nation Only Is Strong Enough to Handle It

The earnings the telephone monopoly is permitted to pocket and the return which Federal regulation allows to railroads afford a striking contrast.

American railroads have just closed their most profitable year. Their rates are as high as the traffic will bear. Yet the average earnings of railroads as a whole, on a valuation claimed by railway executives to be insufficient, are below legal interest on protected loans.

Meanwhile the telephone monopoly is paying 9 per cent. on its outstanding stock and earning upward of 11 per cent.

Even this generous return does not suffice it. For in the metropolitan area of Greater New York, where its volume of activity is greatest, it has just topped a grant of 10 per cent. surcharge with a request for another 25 per cent. In Massachusetts the telephone company last Fall put over an increase of approximately $8,000,000.

Having found that Federal courts are more hospitable to its expanding claims than are the Public Service Commissions of the States, which know most about them, it is pushing its demands into the Federal courts.

Under the ingenious plan by which the associated Bell companies are interlocked, each rate increase wrested in one locality automatically sweetens the entire monopoly, adding to its ability to resist effective regulation everywhere.

This is the menacing situation which faces 16,000,000 users of Bell telephone service in the United States.

Some power greater than the Bell monopoly should exercise adequate and competent authority over it.

There is no private power that is bigger. There is no State power that is as big. The nation itself alone remains strong enough.

An inquiry to determine what agency of the national Government should bring the ever-growing demands of the Bell system to a just accounting is among the urgent duties of the present Congress.

What Are the Schools Doing?

Up in Aroostook County, the Folks Are Going to KNOW

Two hundred and fifty miles beyond Portland and 140 miles north of Bangor the school committees of four smart towns in the potato country are completing plans for a new variety of interscholastic competition which may well find favor elsewhere.

Strange that no one ever thought of it before, but the schools of Houlton, Bridgewater, Monticello and Island Falls have agreed to pit their young folks against each other in the subjects the schools are supposed to be busy about.

In place of pole-vaulting, hockey, the 100-yard dash and club swinging, the contest which is to take place in Houlton early next month, by way of marking National Education Week, will determine which school is best this year in such old-fashioned studies as reading, writing, arithmetic, spelling and English composition.

Each school will send five candidates to the fray in the shire town. We HOPE the four towns are tremendously excited. We should be glad to know how the contestants are standing up under a rigorous training, what the coaches have to say for themselves, how brisk is the demand for tickets. Fathers and mothers, we KNOW, must be very much interested.

In the opinion of the Boston Evening American, Superintendent of Schools Packard, of Houlton, thus presenting a bigger and better spelling bee, offers New England something livelier, more thrilling and MUCH MORE IMPORTANT than the attempt to revive the "square" dances. You MIGHT bring this Aroostook County program to the attention of the school committee in YOUR town.

Some Day We'll Know How

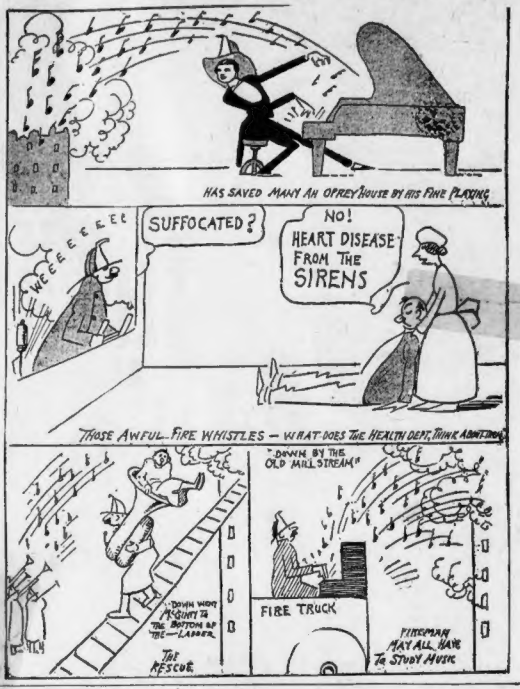
Meanwhile, Britain Does It

Great Britain will inaugurate a regular passenger, postal and commercial flying machine service, having for its principal stops London, Egypt, India.

And this proud country, in which the flying machine was invented, in three attempts to send a flying machine from San Francisco to Hawaii, makes three ONE HUNDRED PER CENT. FAILURES. That's what happens when a combination of graft, high finance and stupidity is in charge of a national enterprise. But we shall learn some day, if only through misfortune. Then we'll get to work.

Putting Out Fires With Music

By T. E. Powers



MAKE YOUR OWN SKY MEASUREMENTS

By Garrett P. Serviss

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest

THE Harvard Observatory is seeking help from the public in watching and determining the paths of large meteors which occasionally shoot across the sky. A very remarkable one was seen in New England and Canada on the evening of December 29, and there was another on November 15. There were indications that the one in November must have struck the earth somewhere in the Adirondack-Canada Valley.

What the astronomers want is more eyes to watch the heavens on all sides, for from their observatories they can see only a narrow strip of sky at a time, through the slit-like opening in the revolving dome through which the telescope is pointed.

Great Difficulty.

But people out of doors can catch the flash of a great meteor anywhere in the sky, even if it is directly behind them, and turn in time to see at least a part of its path through the heavens. And the naked eye is the thing for watching a meteor.

But a great difficulty intervenes. Too few people know the stars and constellations well enough to describe the course of a meteor flying over them. It is doubtful, indeed, if young people (when they go in pairs) know even where North is among the stars. For this there is no remedy except a little application to the very simple, and truly delightful, task of learning, in outline, the geography of the heavens.

Another difficulty as presented by the almost universal habit of estimating sizes and distances in the sky in terrestrial units. You will hear a comet's tail described as "about two feet long," or a meteor's track as "twenty yards," while some say the moon is "a foot broad," other's as "big as a wheel," and others still "about the size of a half-dollar."

At the present time of the year (mid-Winter) the magnificent constellation Orion is so conspicuous high up in the middle of the sky, if you face south an hour on either side of nine o'clock in the evening that nobody can help seeing it. Now the three stars forming the beautiful "belt" of the imaginary "giant hunter" form a row three degrees long.

This singular row of equal stars is traditionally called "the all-and-yard." Fixing its length in your eye as a standard you can apply it anywhere in the sky. The distance between the two brightest stars in Orion, Betelgeuse above the belt and Rigel below it, is a little over eighteen degrees.

Again, around the north polar star, revolves the celebrated constellation of the "Great Bear," best known by the remarkable figure of a dipper with its handle (the handle constituting the tail of the bear). The two outermost stars in the bowl of the dipper are called "the pointers," because they seem to point to the north star.

Now, these stars form another convenient standard of angular measure, for they are five degrees apart. At nine o'clock p. m. at this season the dipper is seen "sting in the northeast, bowl almost

The distance from the nearest "pointer" to the pole star is a little short of thirty degrees, while from the same "pointer" to the diagonally opposite star in the bowl of the dipper, the distance is ten degrees. The entire length of the dipper, bowl and handle both inclusive, is about twenty-five degrees.

Watching a Meteor

As the dipper is always in sight above or below, to right or left of the pole, the standards of angular measure that it affords are more convenient than any other in the sky.

In watching a meteor, note its elevation above horizon, over what constellations it moves, and in what direction, and try to estimate the length of its path as measured by the standards mentioned. Note the hour and minute of observation, and your geographical location. And send your observations not to me, but to the Harvard Observatory.

ON "LOVE AND PITY"

WHEN A WOMAN is
IN LOVE with a man
She is ALWAYS proud
Of him.
And has she not Good reason? He has
AT LEAST shown his Good taste. That is,
If HE, TOO, is in love
With HER.
When a woman MARRIES
A man, she is SOMETIMES
SORRY for him, and Possibly with GOOD REASON.
Has he not, maybe,
Shown SOME weakness?
HUSBANDS generally DO,
Sooner or LATER.
PITY, they say, is akin
TO LOVE. Sometimes
PITY is THE PARENT
Through which love
Comes. SOMETIMES it
Is the small frail
CHILD OF LOVE.
Nobody WANTS PITY who Can GET LOVE.
And NO ONE who has Ever KNOWN love can REALLY be PITIED.

LISTEN, WORLD!

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

By Elsie Robinson

THE Stratton youngsters don't like other young folks.

Marie, who is seventeen, says she "doesn't approve of the way the other girls at High School act." She never goes to their dances, never joins their giggling groups in corners, has no girl chum. She likes to go with her mother to Social Service meetings. The older women praise her a great deal for her stand. They confide in her and give her errands to do.

Bart, who's nineteen, is equally out of the things at school. Doesn't go in for athletics, doesn't belong to any boys' society. He likes to hang around a gang of young men down at his father's factory. They are all a good deal older than he is and he enjoys their stories of prize fights and hunting trips. They flatter him, because he is "the boss's kid."

Bart and Marie are not shunning young people because they are sensitives and idealistic. They are shunning them because they are afraid of them. Both Marie and Bart are suffering from an Inferiority Complex.

They shun young people because young people make life difficult for them. Young people subject them to uncomfortable tests and competitions. When they are with youngsters of their own age they must be as amusing or daring or charming or original as the others of their own age. They must work hard for popularity. They must run the risk of ridicule and razzing.

So Bart and Marie manage to escape discomfort of adjustment to people their own age. And the effect on them is quite as deadly as if they had "escaped" food or water or sunshine, for their minds need that adjustment as desperately as their bodies need food. Without such adjustment they will go through life as weaklings. They will never attain power and popularity—they will always be rated as "queer" and forgotten or shunned by those of their own age. And the parents who aid and abet this "escape" are helping to cripple their children as surely as though they locked them in chains and placed them in dungeons on a bread and water diet.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS---

MY daughter, consider the things which money will buy, and the things which it will not buy. For, the first are innumerable—but the second are indispensable!

Behold, the damsels of Babylon have set covetous eyes upon the pockets of the rich; and the butter-and-egg man is their delight.

"Yea, they have cried out in their hearts "Oh Lord, send us a human Santa Claus, who will cover us with pearls and sables and Helen Rowland hose of spun silk! For, love may satisfy the heart, but money payeth the beauty doctor and the milliner and keepeth the big car going!"

"Go to. Love bringeth kisses and heartaches and thrills and disillusionments; but money bringeth friends and heartease and glad rags and gayety!"

Money layeth the plaudits of waiters and the devotion of bellhops; the love of grafters and the homage of snobs. But, what doth love within a cottage profit thee, if the wolf howleth outside the door, and the creditor clamoreth at the window?

Verily, verily, the damsels of Babylon have reasoned wisely, but not well.

Why, then, do the damsels of Babylon sigh for riches? For the things which money will buy are only luxuries—but the things which it will NOT buy are the heart's NECESSITIES!

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

THERE'S no doubt that relatives are responsible for a lot of our divorces, but delicatessens have broken up more homes than all the mother-in-laws put together.

SOME men may wed for love, but most of them get married for culinary reasons.

THE average man only proposes when he's hungry.

HIS heart may be in the parlor but his mind is on the dining room.

THE three happiest moments in a husband's life are breakfast, lunch and dinner.

AND no matter how much a man loves his wife he hates to eat out of a paper bag.

TO him, the deadliest weapon in the world is a can opener.

EVERY husband pictures his wife an angel but he never stops to think that angels don't hang around kitchens.

IF she has wings, she uses them to fly over to the delicatessen.

ONE man sued his wife for divorce because the only time she ever stood over the gas stove was cooking dinner for her Pomeranian.

THE IDEAL WOMAN HAS CHARM

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE ideal woman is lovable. She may not be beautiful of face, but she has charm.

She is attractive to men, not repellent.

She is the appeal of nature. She draws man as the sun draws planets.

Her power is deep, cosmic, as strong and mysterious as gravitation.

She is the embodiment of love, which is the most persistent, ever green and irresistible of human motives.

However forceful her individuality, she cannot lose her strange drawing power.

She is passionate, but differs from her weakling sisters in that her passion is unswervingly loyal.

All the cumulative morality of centuries of conscience centres in her love.

She clings not from subservience, but from a loyalty as intense as sex itself.

She is free. No man owns her soul nor body. She gives, as sovereign queens give. She cannot barter as commoner women barter; she cannot obey as slaves obey; she cannot yield as cowards yield.

She is void of egotism; she is full of self-reverence.

She is happy in girlhood, is contented in wifehood, is glorified in motherhood.

She is proud to be a woman. She does not want to be a man.

She has wisdom. In every crisis her husband is guided by her instinct.

She has character. She secretly moulds the natures of her children. She is the power behind each one of them.

She is the flowering rose bush in times of pleasure. She is a high tower in times of trouble.

Her eyes are full of understanding. She knows the feeling in back of your words.

Her smile is the reward of heaven. It is worth more than gold.

She is intelligent as no man is intelligent.

She is brave as no man is brave.

Her vision has that clairvoyance that is bestowed upon no man.

She is variable as water; but as the water of the unfailing spring, of the eternal ocean, changing forever, forever fixed.

She is the best inheritance from the world that was. She is the matrix of the world to come.

In proportion as men look up to her they grow unafraid and wise. When they look down on her, as they treat her with contempt or indifference, they become weak and cruel.

She is not the champion of religious doctrine; she is the incarnation of the religious instinct.

She is the ladder by the brook where man dreams; she reaches to heaven; upon the rungs of her soul angels ascend and descend.
